SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The kidnapper of eight-year-old Graeme Thorne threatened to feed the boy to sharks if he is not paid £25,000 Australian ($56,000) ransom.

Two hours after the boy disappeared on his way to school Thursday the phone rang at the home of Basil Thorne, who won £100,000 in a lottery recently.

Thorne's wife said a male voice with a slight foreign accent said, "Is that you Mrs. Thorne... I have your boy—is your husband there?"

Mrs. Thorne handed the phone to detective Larry O'Shea.

Then the voice went on: "I have your boy... I want £25,000 by 5 o'clock or will feed him to the sharks."

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today he would "of course" accept a draft for the democratic presidential nomination. He promised to campaign with "vigor and sense of real purpose" if he gets a third try at the White House.

Stevenson's pledge and renewal of his statement to accept a draft were read to a news conference by Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson of California, who endorsed the former Illinois governor two days ago.

Anderson said Stevenson told him:

"Under circumstances which were understandably difficult, I headed the Democratic national ticket in two campaigns. I have, therefore, felt that it would be presumptuous and arrogant for me to claim squatter's rights or to seek actively a third nomination.

"However, if selected by the convention, I will, of course, accept the draft and campaign with vigor."

The Californian appeared at a news conference with Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroey of Oklahoma, leader of the draft-Stevenson organization.

The statement Anderson attributed to the 1952 and 1956 Democratic nominee appeared to be the strongest yet from Stevenson indicating an interest in the 1960 presidential nomination.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown is expected to announce Sunday that he will withdraw as a favorite son candidate and throw his support to front-runner Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

BIG FISH WARY

Kennedy's camp expects at least two other favorite son governors to join Brown in endorsing Kennedy. But there were signs that another Democratic kingmaker might be eluding Kennedy's grasp.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas are the two state leaders whom Kennedy's campaign captains hope to lure into an open endorsement of the Massachusetts senator before the Democratic national convention opens Monday.

The troublesome question mark for Kennedy's lieutenants was Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania. He was the convention's mystery man as the proceedings started to heat up.

Lawrence arrived in Los Angeles Thursday night, asserting that neither he nor his big 81-vote delegation would declare for any candidate until a Monday caucus. Then, he said, all the candidates may get some votes from Pennsylvania "and somebody could get a majority."

PNR Would Test Case In Court

Three Communities
Support Prince Rupert

By FRANK RUTTER

A Wenner-Gren spokesman today said the Pacific Northern Railway was willing to defend itself in court as opposition to its plans mounted—in B.C.'s north.

Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co., told the Times: "We are willing to go to court to answer Prince Rupert."

At the same time, the north-western communities of Kitimat, Terrace and Smithers backed up Prince Rupert's bid to halt construction of the railway. They would all be bypassed by the 700-mile PNR.

QUALIFIED

Prince Rupert Mayor P. J. Lester said he thought his city qualified as an "interested party" under the Public Utilities Act. As such it might file a complaint with the PUC against the railway for starting work without PUC approval.

This would parallel the court action launched by Prince Rupert June 30, when a writ was served on PNR lawyers.

Mr. Lester said his lawyers were awaiting full text of a statement made Wednesday by the PUC showing reasons for dismissing a railway application for a certificate of convenience.

"The statement pointed out an interested party could complain, causing a full hearing into PNR affairs."

RAILWAY ACT

According to the government, the PNR started work under the Railway Act. The railway's lawyers earlier said it did not come under the Public Utilities Act.

The PUC statement said its legal advisers found the PNR to be a public utility and as such, should come under the PUC.

Asked today if the railway would go before the PUC, Mr. Gore said, "It's purely a legal matter. I don't know. It is in the hands of our lawyers."

He said as far as he knew the lawyers have answered the Prince Rupert writ—returnable today. The company was quite willing to fight in court.

DIEF PONDER'S FALL SESSION ON JOBLESS

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is considering a fall session of parliament to deal with unemployment, it was learned today.

The Prime Minister made the statement this week at a Tory party caucus.

He said there are "certain matters" that may require emergency government action. October has been mentioned as the most likely time for convening parliament.

Germany if the West German parliament convened in West Berlin this fall. He hinted at Soviet determination to react forcefully to any "violation" of Austrian neutrality. He said Russia could not remain "in different" and would "take such measures we then think necessary."

Khrushchev said that Adenauer, like Hitler, outlawed the Communist party when he came into power, and added: "If Adenauer would touch the Socialist countries with one finger, we would smash him."

Khrushchev answered most of the questions calmly and without the fist-banging and gesticulations. But his temper flared when a newsman boomed his statement that Communism is the superior force.

"That is one of the men whom we overlooked liquidating at Stalingrad," Khrushchev snapped.

They needn't think a black mark won't show against Darkest Africa.

The Utilities Commission seems to doubt that the PNR is a railway—an' that's a good question.

Now that summer's here, everybody's leavin'.

GOV'T APPEAL PLANNED TO SAVE SEAMEN'S JOBS

VANCOUVER (CP)—The provincial government will be asked to intervene in a waterfront dispute to save the jobs of eight seamen who one union says have been fired at the request of its rival.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC), announced it would make the request after losing a court battle to save the men's jobs with Black Ball Ferries Ltd.

The men were expelled from the Independent Seafarers International Union for joining the Brotherhood. The SIU contract with the company says only SIU members may work on the ferries.

WARWICK, R.I. (UPI)—Movie star Ginger Rogers ran into double trouble but came out unscathed Thursday night during a performance of "Annie Get Your Gun" at the Warwick Musical Theatre.

During the first act, Miss Rogers rode a bicycle off the theatre's circular stage, instead of around it. She landed in the lap of an orchestra player in the pit.

"I'm all right folks," said Miss Rogers. The audience applauded.

The show resumed, but in the second act, Miss Rogers fell from a high pedestal. She was not hurt.

NORWICH, England—Only a feather covered the modesty of a fairground stripper.

And when the feather came unstuck it cost brothers George and Laurence Appleton £20 fine.

They were charged Thursday with exhibiting an indecent show.

The offending feather, witnesses said, was fastened to the stripper's stomach by sticky tape.

It was part of a fairground show featuring such subtle attractions as "What a Sailor Expects to Find When Shipwrecked."

Also on the program: "What Adam Found in the Garden of Eden."

BITBURG, Germany—Heiress Nanette Wallace and the soldier she defied parental authority to elope with were married across the German border in Luxembourg early today.

A friend of the couple said Nanette and Wiley Lockamy, of Clinton, N.C., were married in a civil ceremony. Final permission for the couple to marry was given yesterday after the necessary paperwork had been completed.

BENSON, Ariz.—There's a little matter of an $11,704 food bill to be taken care of Saturday when some 100 members of a religious sect climb out of their bomb shelters.

The bill was incurred by members of the Full Gospel Assembly, who stocked shelters and their cellars with loads of food and went underground Monday night prepared to survive a nuclear holocaust.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Ottawa police department won its first court case Thursday using its new alcohol-measuring "breathalyzer." Cyril G. Marshall, 68, was convicted of impaired driving and fined $200.

Mr. Marshall showed only slight signs of impairment, police testified. But the breath-measuring device showed a reading of .15 per cent, the accepted figure for impairment.

SAYS LIPPMANN

Problems Too Urgent For Ike

NEW YORK (AP)—News-paper columnist Walter Lippmann said Thursday night the problems of the 1960s are "too severe and too urgent" for this country to continue the policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Lippmann, interviewed on the CBS Reports TV program, said:

"I think that President Eisenhower is not aware of the nature of the world as it is after the two world wars, and he's out of date, and he's pursuing a policy... which is not preparing the country for the needs of the 1960s and also which is not, in my view, meeting the real challenge of the Soviet Union."

He said: "I expect to see a growth of neutralism in a more and more insistent and even violent form, such as we've already begun to see in Japan, spread all around that semi-circle which extends from Japan through Korea, Formosa, Viet Nam to Pakistan and Turkey."

WARTIME POWERS FACE PROBE

Whole House Backs PM's Bill of Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, by a vote of 183 to 0, approved Thursday night the principle of a Canadian bill of rights.

Every member of the House present—Conservative, Liberal and CCF—stood up and was counted as Prime Minister Diefenbaker's cherished measure sailed through second reading after 3½ days of intense debate. The galleries were filled.

The vote came after a two-hour speech by Mr. Diefenbaker, his second of the debate, in which he replied to Opposition criticisms of the bill and offered to establish a committee next session to examine the War Measures Act.

This was a partial concession to Opposition Leader Pearson, who had demanded that curbs on extraordinary powers given to government under the War Measures Act be written into the Bill of Rights.

WANTS GUARANTEE
Mr. Pearson called for an outright statutory declaration that no government can deprive a Canadian of his citizenship, or exile him, even in wartime.

He also called for a guarantee that the government cannot detain a person under the War Measures Act for more than a few weeks without bringing him before a Superior Court judge and making a prima facie case that his detention is necessary to the security of Canada. If such a case is not established the man would be set free.

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed that the War Measures Act has been found to contain provisions "that ought to be ameliorated in the interests of the individual while at the same time maintaining the security of the state."

Immediately after the bill of rights was given second reading, Mr. Diefenbaker moved that it be referred to a special 15-member committee for study.

The debate was vigorous from the outset and produced its share of fireworks. The Opposition attacked the bill mainly on grounds that the President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was silent on the statement made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the permanent commission of Congress.

Bomarc Included

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Thursday signed a $39,996,608,000 defence appropriation bill including $224,000,000 for continuation of the Bomarc-B anti-aircraft missile program.

The amount is $661,608,000 more than Eisenhower requested in his original defence budget.

Castro's Stand Known Tonight?

HAVANA (UPI)—Cuba's revolutionary government, bolstered by support from Red China and Russia, heated up its diplomatic and economic war with the United States today by an angry rejection of U.S. complaints about seizure of American-owned property.

A 10-page note issued by the Foreign Ministry on Thursday night rejected as "false, hypocritical and malevolent" a Washington protest against expropriation of the Esso and Texaco oil refineries.

Castro was scheduled to make a radio-television speech tonight at which time he may announce retaliatory measures for President Eisenhower's $56,000-ton cut in purchases of Cuban sugar. Castro now has authorization to seize any and all United States-owned property in Cuba by decree.

Communist China today branded the United States sugar cut a "dirty and shameless act." The Soviet Tass News Agency and Radio Moscow accused the United States of exerting "rude pressure."

The first Soviet tanker arrived in Havana Thursday with a load of crude oil to help the Castro regime stave off a fuel shortage brought on by the refinery seizures.

SUGAR SUPPLY TO KEEP UP

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans will have no trouble getting plenty of sugar for their coffee and cake despite the government's sharp cut in imports from Cuba, the main foreign supplier.

Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson said the slap at Fidel Castro's anti-American regime probably would have no noticeable effect on sugar supplies or prices in this country.

IN PARLIAMENT

'Divorce Twins' Talk About Ending Blockade

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The CCF's "divorce twins"—Frank Howard and Arnold Peters—are ready to lift their blockade against the 450-odd divorce bills in the Commons under certain circumstances.

Mr. Howard, member for Skeena who has alternated with Mr. Peters, MP for Timiskaming, in delaying passage of the bills, said in an interview that the blockade will be lifted if an effort is made to keep Parliament in session only to handle divorces.

He said the proposal offered the government previously for ending their delaying tactics still stands. They have urged the government to bring in legislation enabling the courts to handle Quebec and Newfoundland divorces or at least to undertake a study of ways of relieving Parliament of this job.

The government could prorogue Parliament as soon as all government legislation is disposed of, leaving the divorce bills unpassed. But to keep Parliament in session to deal only with divorce bills would require a change in the rules.

As the rules now stand, if the House continued to sit after government business was finished divorce bills would be debated for a full day on Mondays and for an hour on Tuesdays and Fridays. Other days would be given to non-government bills affecting the public generally and to motions sponsored by MPs anxious to get debate on any public question.

To give divorce bills precedence in debate on days other than Mondays would require a motion to suspend the rules or a request for unanimous consent.

The motion would be debatable and afford Mr. Howard and Mr. Peters a chance to outline their alternatives to the present method of handling Quebec and Newfoundland divorces.

Mr. Howard said that once such a motion was adopted there would be no further delaying action.

However, he said he would refuse consent to a request to give divorce bills precedence through the non-debatable device of asking for unanimous consent of the Commons.

'An Experience In Frustration'

Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, said it is "shocking" that army requirements for new weapons and equipment have not been met.

Chesley W. Carter (L-Burin-Burgo) tossed his Second World War army helmet on to the table of the Commons defence committee to emphasize Mr. Hellyer's point.

Mr. Carter demanded to know whether any consideration was being given to provision of a new helmet.

Defence Minister Pearkes said the army has an adequate supply of helmets and there was no plan to get a new one this year. The helmet displayed by Mr. Carter had been "very satisfactory in the last war."

Mr. Hellyer accused the government of wasting money on the things it did buy.

Mr. Pearkes retorted the government hasn't got unlimited funds. He would rather delay than throw away the taxpayers' money on something which might not be necessary.

Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) said the committee was "truly an experience in frustration."

This was after Mr. Pearkes declined to say whether Canadian troops in Europe would be equipped with nuclear warheads though the Honest John rocket they are to get in 1961 would be capable of carrying such warheads.

Mr. Pearkes said the Canadian Infantry Brigade in Europe is trained and organized to fight in a nuclear war. If one broke out now, it would receive nuclear support from other NATO troops.

THE PROFESSOR CAN TALK UP A STORM

OTTAWA (CP)—A fast-talking professor who describes himself as a legal theoretician and has a flair for political infighting has become the star witness of the Commons banking committee in its study of government amendments to the Combines Investigation Act.

Professor Maxwell Cohen, a 49-year-old acting dean of law at McGill University, enlivened the committee Thursday. He appeared at his own request.

With a torrent of words which left Hansard shorthand reporters throwing up their hands in frustration at the speed, he gave the committee a 90-minute dissertation on the development of anti-trust law since the 16th century.

Speaking from a few notes but mostly off the cuff, he said he strongly supported the idea that when an anti-trust suit is launched the courts should have the power to order dissolution of a combine.

"I say it's a good idea, but is it constitutional?"

He said the courts would only be able to order dissolution of a merger or combine after proper hearing, and then would have a final say when they completed the anti-trust case.

Mr. Cohen said Parliament should go easy on major changes in anti-combines law at this time.

The proposed amendments, he said, were both too early and too late—too early in the sense they come before there had been a complete reassessment of anti-trust law in the new economic atmosphere, and too late to deal with mergers that had already taken place. There should be a royal commission inquiry.

PUC Riddle in an Enigma

IN A LONG AND NOT VERY clear statement, the Public Utilities Commission has explained what it has done about the Pacific Northern Railway, and why it hasn't done anything.

The statement, in one ambiguous sentence, seems to say that the commission dismissed the railway's original application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity when the railway abandoned that application.

The commission invites some "interested person" to launch a complaint which would force a public hearing on the railway and then says that any order the commission might make could be overruled by Mr. Bennett and the Cabinet.

Mr. Arthur Turner, deputy leader of the CCF, having read the statement, says the Public Utilities Commission should stand up for its rights to control affairs of the Pacific Northern Railway or resign.

This is the course he suggests on his interpretation of the statement. But the statement defies any single interpretation. It is so phrased that it can provide support for almost any PUC action on the railway in future.

Whatever Prof. Angus and his colleagues may have accomplished by their explanation, it fails to shed any light on the major problems involved in the Pacific Northern Railway project.

The explanation gives no indication of how the railway, if it is to be built, will affect the provincial economy.

Unanswered are such questions as:

What concessions do the promoters expect from the people of British Columbia? What, if any, understanding have they on such matters as land grants?

That Crazy School System

MR. JOHN B. HOLDEN, A visiting parliamentarian from Victoria, Australia, says "the B.C. education system is simply crazy."

This is not an entirely original statement. Mayors, Reeves, city and municipal councils have been saying that for a long, long time in different language. Dr. Hilda Neatby said about the same in another context seven years ago.

Mr. Holden could find hundreds of people in this province who agree with him. He could find hundreds more who are prepared to say that anyone who calls B.C.'s education system crazy is crazy himself.

Perhaps unwittingly, Mr. Holden has put his foot in an old hornet's nest. As our guest, we hope he isn't stung.

His chief criticism of the provincial system seems to be that it is wrapped in strangling red tape, that diversification of authority in school affairs is foolish and that the Australian system of state financing and control is infinitely preferable.

Some will say amen to that. Others will favor the part which lets the state government meet all

Why is the line proposed over an unnecessarily long and costly route? Why isn't advantage being taken of existing CNR track that could cut an estimated $30 million from costs?

As we have asked before, what happens if the railway fails to pay? Will it fail, as other non-paying lines have fallen, into the lap of the taxpayers for them to nourish?

"The most important functions of the (Public Utilities) Commission," says its statement, "are to ensure that the public will receive reliable service and that the rates which it has to pay will be reasonable. It is in order to discharge these functions that the commission deals with the inception of a public utility (a certificate of public convenience and necessity) with its permanent financing (issue of securities) and finally with its rates."

Fine. But since this is the case, where do we go from here? Is the Public Utilities Commission powerless to go into such issues unless further protests are lodged? If the suggestion by Mr. Strachan that the commission proceed on its own initiative is unacceptable in its original form, or if Prince Rupert's objections to the proposed route must be lodged in another way, let's have the required complaints fairly and properly set out. Then, presumably, the commission will be obliged to hold hearings.

In the meantime, the PUC seems to ask the question: when does a public utility become a public utility? After one shovel has been bought and a few yards of right-of-way cleared?

Some tough questions and straight answers, under oath, are required to set this matter right with the public.

the bills, and a large number will argue that such should be the case here without school boards being forced to yield their share of control over education.

The share of control can be pretty debatable, but it is a democratic principle honored by local authorities—at least by trustees.

In this community, his argument that when a new school is needed in Australia the department goes ahead and builds it, will sound appealing. Boards unable to find taxpayer support for new building bylaws would like that. And some which cannot afford to offer good teachers the inducements they need to take jobs in different localities would prefer the state to allot staff members to various schools.

As Mr. Holden sees it, the whole thing's crazy in B.C. Maybe he's right—though the Provincial Government, which has tried all sorts of methods to convince the voters it is doing the right thing by education, will not agree.

Red-taped we are, and often hamstrung. Odd, on the other hand, that the B.C. school product seems to turn out so well so often.

Forgotten Examples

VOICING HIS REGRET OVER the failure of the parking area and mall vote, Mr. Hugh Stephen drew an interesting, if distressing, comparison the other day.

He contrasted the far-sightedness and the public consciousness shown by Victorians of an earlier generation to the attitude displayed today. After listing certain improvements undertaken with considerable vision by earlier citizens, he suggested that Victorians of the present have failed to live up to the example of their predecessors here.

More recently, the city has learned to its surprise that several Belleville Street lots it was prepared to sell to private buyers cannot be sold because they were deemed to be City by the Provincial Government about 70 years ago in trust for an esplanade.

In view of these recent remarks and discoveries, isn't it about time that our citizens and those they elect revised their philosophy to pay a little more attention to posterity? Are we to continue so self-centred in our interests that the city deteriorates and loses the charm as well as the vitality it once held?

'Misleading Youthful Thinking'

FEW YOUTH MOVEMENTS have met with the world-wide success of the Boy Scouts. With up to six million boys in the various national organizations, the movement begun by Lord Baden-Powell has given training in citizenship, love of the outdoors, skill in handicrafts and a sense of brotherhood and public service to youth in dozens of lands.

The Boy Scouts teach loyalty to one's country but not jingoism; they teach brotherhood among boys of all classes, races and creeds. It is this latter consideration that places Scouting in a bad light when dictators take over a country.

Hitler eradicated the Scout movement as subversive and herded boys instead into his Nazi youth organizations. Communist Russia has never permitted Scouting, claiming that it inculcates bourgeois standards. In 1952, when Scout officials in Czechoslovakia were sentenced to prison terms of three to 15 years, the charge included the accusation that "by means of false slogans and mottoes of patriotism and the brotherhood of mankind, Scouting is misleading youthful thinking," and also that the movement "is one of the methods of the ruling bourgeoisie to distract the attention of youth from the just fight of the working classes against their exploiters."

The matter comes to mind again in the wake of a case in Prague this year in which two men were sentenced to prison terms for "spreading propaganda for the prohibited Boy Scout movement and its ideology."

Obviously there is something about Scouting which the ideological "isms" don't like—which seems to enhance its attractiveness for all free peoples.

"It's g-great, C-c-ynthia . . . j-just love-l-ly . . . once y-y-you g-g-g-get used to it . . . C-c-c-come on . . . Egad! . . . in . . ."

Not What It Is But What It Seems To Be

IT is an odd thing that in this best of all possible worlds which man has manufactured—the twentieth century of materialistic progress and achievement—one of the most prominent features of our environment—is our propensity to bluff and hoodwink. The corollary to our assertion that we have never had it so good seems to be that we must fool everyone to make them think it is even better. Is our best-world-yet so poor that we must indulge in skulduggery to improve it—or rather, to give a false impression of improvement?

Perhaps more true and typical than the cartoonist intended was the recent remark of a hero in a space-age comic strip. He and a scientist are out in space investigating messages from a vehicle apparently manned by intelligent beings—man's first contact with other life in the universe and a breath-taking moment in history.

"How will we answer them?" asks the scientist.

"Let's bluff them," says the hero—a true spiritual graduate of our era.

From such a giant conception it is small wonder to find that 20 American entrants in a Miss Universe beauty contest in Florida were found to be cheating. A sharp-eyed official detected signs that an in-curve here and an out-curve there had been artificially aided—a reminder that even beauties of national calibre are not satisfied with apparent perfection and feel impelled to strive for even better than 100 per cent.

Between the range of these two examples lies a wide field in which man is obviously more satisfied with the seeming than with the being—with the apparent rather than the factual.

Perhaps this helps to explain the importance of entertainment in our world. Even more than in the days of the Roman cruises—man-craves entertainment—and the basis of entertainment is largely fantasy, imagination, fairy-tale, make-believe.

For a while we try to make Never-Never Land come real; we create a fiction in the likeness of our own desires. And we—the mass of mankind—spend many millions of dollars a year in this pursuit.

Same Effect

With this theme dominating our lives, it is not surprising that we tend to carry over the fantasy from the entertainment world to the world of practical affairs.

We like the broad, sweeping picture that gives free reign to our imaginations. A politician who can conjure up a vision, merge the never-never with the soon-to-be, has little difficulty in attracting a following.

If he can catch the public imagination with a plan for huge development, vast construction and castles on the ground—as well as in the air, he'll be well on the way to personal success.

From a politician's standpoint, the value of this lies in its economy. Words may not cultivate facts but they can exert more power over a given period. And complaints that a word picture did not turn out to be true may often be answered by another, still greater word picture.

Too Persuasive

For human minds so conditioned, persuasion presents few problems, and the leaders of commerce, like the leaders of politics, have been quick to appreciate the fact. Thus we have the great hodge-podge of commercial products today, so many of which are not what they seem and were never intended to be.

Packaging, the pride and unique contribution of our era, is based on the same principle. Whether the package be the body of a car—large, imposing, colorful, but not necessarily indicative of what is under the hood; or the wrapping on a candy bar—puffed out with stiff paper, air, and lengths of cardboard—the gimmick works.

It may also work in beauty contests, if the judges' eyes are too dazzled to detect false packaging. But whether bluff will work with space folk is another question. To get to know them we may have to come down to plain reality, sincere and unadorned. And that might be a good way to get to know ourselves too, if we ever really wanted to.

As Our Readers See It

Concentration Camps

There may be some people around, who, in the face of mounting evidence, still believe that the last world war was fought to defend democracy and freedom. Well, Britain, U.S.A. and Russia and Allies had the world at their feet in 1945, after much human sacrifice. But what has happened since?

A prominent French medical expert, Professor Charles Richet of Paris, gave some figures on April 29, in a speech at an Oslo conference organized by the World Veterans' Federation. In 1945, he said there were 12,000,000 people in concentration camps throughout the world.

But what about 1960—after 15 years in which the victorious Allies who fought for "freedom," have in effect ruled the world, between them? According to Professor Richet's estimate there are now more than twice as many people in concentration camps—25,000,000.

Warnings With Little Weight

The Daily Times of June 11 carried a warning headed "Saanich Tough on Violations," by David Smith, Saanich chief inspector of services.

It is the opinion of this writer that a warning does not cover the situation created by illegal building and improper use of land zoned for a given purpose, nor does it add to the efficiency of a building inspector or reduce the cost of administration.

This situation could be handled in the same manner as violations of traffic or any other law, since the importance of it is no less great in regard to the lives and health of the persons concerned.

I have had occasion to complain of the conditions existing in close proximity of my home to the reeve of this district, about a vegetable and fruit stand, which is not only a blot on the landscape, but issues very objectionable odors. Coupled with this is a field of potatoes and a sawdust road located on a one-family-zoned lot, the dust from which forces us to keep our windows and doors closed continually, and we have had to seek the services of a doctor.

No action has been taken. Mr. Smith's warnings appear to have carried very little weight. I repeat that a law is made to govern the conduct and actions of all persons and should be used accordingly.

Find the Vandals

The Queen's bust evidently has again been disfigured. I consider this not only an insult to Her Majesty the Queen, but more particularly to Mrs. Packard, and the city council who authorized the creation of the bust at the expense of Victoria taxpayers.

I would beg to suggest that it be repaired and placed where the council decides, and every effort should be made to bring the vandals to justice.

The suggestion to have a bronze one is commendable. But it should be financed by public subscription.

The Victims Were Farmers, Settlers, Small Operators

IN the Court of Queen's Bench at Montreal on June 15, seventeen pulp and paper companies were convicted under the Criminal Code of operating an unlawful combine. This combine existed from April 3, 1947 to Dec. 3, 1954. The companies were fined, in aggregate, $240,000.

The purpose of this combine was to keep down the price of pulpwood. The means employed was an agreed or fixed price which unduly lessened, if it did not suppress, free market competition. The area covered by this price fixing combine was Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and, at times parts of Prince Edward Island.

The victims of this combine were the farmers, the settlers and the small operators. The word settler, in this case, means the pioneer farmer who has taken on virgin forest land in undeveloped areas and is clearing his homestead.

Teeth Removed

Every farmer, settler, or small pulpwood operator in the three prairie provinces or British Columbia will be intensely interested in this case. So will the general public which is now witnessing the removal of some of the effective teeth from the Combines Act by the Diefenbaker Government by amendment in Parliament.

This pulpwood combine case serves, also, to illustrate vividly the way in which the present amendments to the Combines Act will weaken and perhaps destroy the Act.

This prosecution and conviction turned on a basic point of law now in hazard at Ottawa. It can be shown that these companies could scarcely have been convicted under the Fulton amendments.

They would have escaped either through the many and commodious loopholes so generously provided by the Conservatives, their pleas of not guilty in the trial exactly fit these new escape clauses.

Or, more important, they would have been not guilty under a new and fundamental change which is about to be made in the Act.

Great Surprise

The verdict of guilty and the fine of $240,000 came as a great surprise to the public, and an explanation is in order.

The detection of this combine, the amassing of evidence and the preparatory work was done by the Combines Investigation branch in the mid 1950s, under the direction of Hon. Stuart Carson, Minister of Justice in the St. Laurent Government.

The hearing before the Restrictive

Trade Practices Commission—always held in private—was in 1957 and the Commission's public report condemning the combine was issued in March 1958. Following the normal practice, Mr. Fulton, the Conservative Minister of Justice, laid a charge under the Criminal Code (section 411) and the trial opened in Montreal before Mr. Justice Batschaw on Oct. 13. The verdict came eight months later.

Interesting Documents

In reading Mr. Batschaw's judgment, which runs to 35,000 words, this reporter finds reproduced many documents which are extremely interesting. Many of these documents would brighten the pages of the more sensational "whodunits."

Here is fact, not fiction. Here in these documents is revealed the calculated, careful effort of first class business minds—the executives of big corporations—backed by top lawyers, to get around if not deliberately to violate the law.

Writing from memory, many passages stand out. There was the pulpwood buyer at Barry's Bay, Ontario, who had a heart for the farmers from whom he bought pulpwood. The combine had fixed the price to the farmers at $15 per cord, and allowed this buyer a commission at 50¢ a cord. The buyer was splitting his commission with the farmers whose wood he bought. Twenty-five cents a cord may look small, but this combine was jealous of every penny and ruthless in enforcing its decrees.

This buyer in due course got a rough letter from head office. He must stop paying this extra 25 cents to the farmers (out of his own pocket, incidentally) immediately. If he failed to stop instantly he would be fired and no other company would ever hire him. The combine stood solidly together.

And there were the two United States men who were in the pulpwood business at Toronto and who were asked by the companies in the combine to join up.

It looked fat and juicy, right enough, but these Americans had had experience with the United States anti-combines law and they were cagey. They replied to the invitation by saying that what was being done in Ontario would be illegal in the United States. It was too good to be true and they stayed out.

Trustworthy?

And there are so many fascinating items among the documents. Was this company dependable? Could these men be trusted to keep secrets?

Over this period of 7 years and 9 months the combine met 5 or 6 times a year. But no written record of any of these meetings was found. There were no minutes, no list of those present, no record of decisions made, no official schedules of prices.

The evidence which convicted the company was found in the strictly private memos written by assistant managers and the like to the managers. Here the whole wretched conspiracy to rob farmers and settlers and small operators stands out with unmistakable clarity.

Full Control

How much money was involved?

The judgment places the amount of pulpwood covered by the price fixing agreement at about 2 million cords per year. The play in prices over the period was from $10 to $20. No estimate is made of how much higher the price of pulpwood would have been had there been no combine and a free, competitive market. But obviously if the price was depressed by only $1 per cord, the loss to the farmers would have exceeded $14,000,000 over the period covered by the prosecution.

That would be a lot of money to take from little people. And the total almost certainly would be more than double this. The combine was found guilty of a criminal offence—just as a common criminal might be found guilty in a magistrate's court. The documents show that the members of the combine knew what they were doing.

Travelling 'Light'

LONDON—“Travel light” advise the experienced folk who give you timely tips when you're preparing to move around a long way from home. “The first time we crossed the Atlantic,” they say, “we took a trunkful of stuff. Never used it. Just waste weight. Take along nylon drip-drys and wash 'em out in your hotel room. Why, all you need is a couple of shirts, a couple of suits of underwear, handkerchiefs, a few pairs of socks, slacks and a blazer.”

Stott

They're right, of course, but... If you “do” Europe, or even England, by train and bus, there come times when you don't have the opportunity to do your hotel bedroom-washing. You sit in a bus on a hot day and you begin to ooze. Nylon doesn't breathe very well. You feel sticky. Then, if the weather changes to a cool spell, the stickiness jells into a film all over you. You begin to feel like a frypan a careless cook has failed to scour after grilling too much side bacon.

You start looking apprehensively at your neighbors to see if they are edging away. They aren't. They're no better off than you. If you can reconcile yourself to the fact that you're dirty, that almost everybody else is dirty, so let's all make the best of it and enjoy the trip, you've graduated as a busser cum laude.

Anyhow, there's bound to be a bath at the end of the day's run—or is there?

There was an evening in St. Anton, which is in the Austrian Tyrol. We'd travelled during the forenoon and early afternoon through heat. Later we gambolled in the snow of the Arlberg Pass. But we were cheerful.

Half an hour more and we'd debark for the day and there had to be a bath. There was—a shower in a chalet that had not been heated since the ski season, and for a little more than four-bits you could stand under a reluctant trickle that promised to be warm come August.

There was a hotel by Lake Zug where you could find the bathroom with a compass and road map—only few of us had the equipment. But we did manage a quick washup in the tub before the management turned off the hot water to save it for the next day's laundry.

Almost invariably there's a wash basin in your room and if you're good at calisthenics you can do a creditable job of bathing in it. This is the sectional bath. You start by plunging your head into the filled basin, scrubbing the grit from your hair and ears and working down over your face to your neck. Then you dry that part.

Leaving well over, you wash cloth your upper torso and dry that. Then you saturate one of your towels and scrub furiously over your back. With that dried—and if you're lucky there are two towels—you stand stork fashion on one leg while you dunk one foot in the basin and wash upward. Repeat on the other foot and you're almost clean.

Then comes the laundry—which can be a problem. A man scrubs around his shirt collar and cuffs, submerges his shorts and swishes his socks through the water. A wife is more particular. She washes and rinses her slyons and rolls them in the dry towel for a press-out before hanging them over the towel rail.

Later, of course, when you have soap in your eye and you reach for a dry towel, you're just whistling Dixie. There ain't none and wives get astonishingly provoked when you, half blind, dry off on a pair of their stockings by mistake.

Pearson Calls For Big Drive Back to Power

OTTAWA (CP)—Lester B. Pearson Thursday night bubbled over Liberal party gains in Canada and called for a party drive from the group up to win the next federal election.

“The Tory government has lost a lot of ground in this country,” the national Liberal leader said on the CBC's free-time political program, The Nation's Business.

“It now is up to us who are Liberals to show that we are qualified to occupy that ground—to show that we have both the policies and the people to replace the present ineffective and tumbling government when the time comes for another election.”

He twisted the Progressive Conservative and CCF parties for exulting over what they “rather foolishly” thought was the virtual disappearance of the Liberal party from the Canadian political scene.

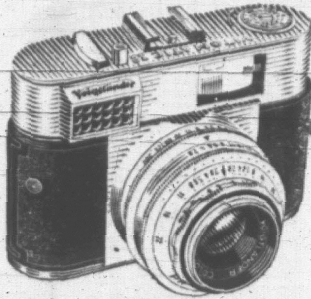

“They were celebrating too soon,” said Mr. Pearson, pointing to recent provincial elections.

THE THINGS WE SEE

By ALAN JARVIS

The Culture of Cities

Many of the things which I have written about, lectured about, argued about, in the past few years—such things as our sick, sick cities, the residential environment, the role of the architect in our society—can be summed up in the single phrase, the culture of cities, for the city, as one finds it in history, is the point of maximum concentration for the power and culture of a community.

Jarvis

Over and over again during the past few months I have found myself, in the middle of writing or lecturing or arguing, bringing to the top of my conscious mind ideas and concepts, images and metaphors, which had lain semi-consciously in the back of my mind for many years. Most recently, it was the parable of the too-high toilet seat.

In many instances I have recognized that the source of these ideas was Lewis Mumford and, indeed, the sentence which I have quoted above is the first one in his book, The Culture of Cities. So many people have asked me about books to read as background material for clear thinking about urban problems, that I want to devote this column to Mumford. Also, I ought to write some acknowledgement of my great debt to him.

Very happily, I had read (and re-read) Mumford's first great volume of what became a trilogy on cultural history, Technics and Civilization, while still at university. It helped clothe the bones of history-book history with a strong musculature of hard technological fact and a cutaneous layer of very sensitive appreciation of the aesthetic impingement of these facts on both individuals and society.

It seemed at that time an approach to the study of history which was unique, for it insisted, over and over again, that we look at history as it lies about us, at the buildings which men have created, at the tools and machines with which they created the artifacts of everyday use, at the places of worship they created, and the residential environments which they allowed to grow up about them, stifling the good life for which they created so hard in factory, mill and mine.

It was, in a way, heady stuff but I'm glad that it was one of the few books which I packed in my bags when I first set out for a tour of Europe in 1938. Without it, I suspect I would have ended up as so many do, with a head full of buzzing, bumbling, ill-assorted tourist impressions. As it was, Mumford's books urged one to pause, in the first enthusiastic rush to see as much as possible in the shortest possible time, and look at certain areas in depth.

My companion at the time, a person both mature and congenial, did this by instinct. So, when we both came upon the wonders of Ravenna for the first time, we stopped dead in our tracks and remained for days, slowly soaking in the austere grandeur of the Empire of the East as revealed in the buildings and mosaics of the churches; retracing the growth of the city, its triumph and decay. Or, in Paris, we traced on foot the shape and substance of the medieval city, the impress made on it by the too-powerful Louis, the drastic—indeed violent—new pattern thrust upon it by the Baron Haussman.

I wrote above, “Mumford's books”—plural. I had already read and begun to assimilate Technics and Civilization. Mumford's second volume in the trilogy, The Culture of Cities had only just been published in 1938, and I took it with me also, reading it as we went along.

In retrospect, I realize that much of what I was reading remained ill-digested and frequently misunderstood, and that I was too easily seduced by Mumford's prose. Re-reading his book now, there is much that I would criticize, and I find the style too emphatic, too prone to phrase-making. Be that as it may, I am everlastingly in his debt for engendering a passionate concern with the things we see.

It was only after one had had the experience of living in a city which possessed a “personality”—Oxford—and only after one had begun to have the experience of another, similar yet very different city—Cambridge—with which it could be contrasted, and more especially, only after one had begun to taste the pleasures of coming to know a great city both intimately and profoundly—in this case London—that the title of Mumford's book took on a real significance.

University Funds Aim Toward Final $600,000

The sum of $600,000 is still needed to complete Victoria University's building fund, chairman R. B. Wilson told the Rotary Club here Thursday.

The campaign, he said, had originally been set for $1,500,000, with a similar matching amount from the province. But the premier said later an adequate university could not be established here for that sum, and put a $2,500,000 quota on the matching fund deal.

This meant, said Mr. Wilson, that the campaign had to be extended another $1,000,000 to enjoy the extended government matching grant.

Fund to date stands at $1,900,000.

He praised the premier's thinking in relation to university fund extensions as expansion here academically was "inevitable" and "beyond" the original conception.

But while contributions to the fund had been excellent in most fields, they lagged from companies which had offices and services in Canada, but headquarters elsewhere.

An "undue" proportion of the load had been shouldered by Canadian companies, he continued, "with few exceptions."

Among the latter he mentioned two oil companies and a car firm.

Their "come-through" had resulted from visits by himself and E. W. Arnett to 45 heads of companies in Eastern Canada.

On the individual subscription basis, most returns had been from persons with "lower and medium" incomes, Mr. Wilson said.

Biggest individual cheque received was for $10,000, despite the high incomes of many Victoria residents.

There was an indication, he added, that service clubs would all get behind the drive to make up the $2,500,000 needed to unlock an equivalent amount from the government to establish a highly rated university here, with emphasis on arts, sciences and education.

Lettuce Dislikes Hot Weather

As air temperatures rise to the summer level we find that vegetables begin to show their aversion for hot weather.

One of the first to assert its feelings will be lettuce.

Those plants which have been well spaced and are developing steadily will take a fair number of warm days without too much objection.

It is the ones which have not been properly thinned out that will be hastening to produce seed heads instead of edible hearts.

The wily gardener has already taken steps to thwart any monkey business the lettuce may have in mind.

First, he has transplanted some of the seedlings to the shady side of the raspberry canes or the north side of the garage. In these positions they are sheltered from the direct summer sun and the soil retains the coolness and moisture in which lettuce love to twiddle their toes.

As a further precaution against rebellion, the gardener has a row of oakleaf lettuce, in either the bronze or green variety, right out in full sun. These plants prefer heat and provide nutty flavored leaves when the head lettuce start acting up.

Spinach also gets seed-head ideas in warm weather, but frequent sowings of a few seed followed by well spaced thinning will usually keep the family needs supplied.

Gardeners who are growing the New Zealand spinach for the summer supply will likely find the first shoots rather tough because of slow development in comparatively cool temperatures.

To overcome this, remove and discard all the tips at present on the plants and encourage new shoots which will develop rapidly in warm weather. They will be tasty and succulent for table use if gathered frequently. This should be done regardless of whether they are actually used or not, for the delicate flavor is only apparent in young growths.

Democrat Platform Writers Warned of Jobless Surge

NEARLY ALL CITY BEACHES APPROVED

Almost all Greater Victoria swimming beaches at lakes and the seashore have been declared safe for bathers by Victoria Esquimalt and the Saanich and South Vancouver Island health departments.

Ross Bay, the Inner Harbor and the area below Banfield Park were the only places that showed excessive bacteria counts which resulted in swimming bans.

But health officials warned that any persons suffering slight infections or just feeling off-color should refrain from swimming. Overcrowded beaches also should be avoided.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany predicted to Democratic convention platform drafters today that government unemployment figures will show a "frightening" jump of nearly 1,000,000 during June.

This increase, he said, would be the largest May-to-June jump in the jobless total since the end of the war.

Urging government policies keyed to stimulating greater economic growth, Meany said the United States is on the road to stagnation, not to growth.

Meany's unemployment forecast and warnings of possible further downturns took platform attention for the time being from a potentially explosive tussle over a civil rights plank.

Nearly 40 witnesses appeared before the drafters Thursday to demand that the party pledge itself to use of full powers of the federal government — legislative and executive as well as the courts — to eliminate racial discrimination in schools, employment, housing and other fields of life.

WHEN'S THE FIRE?

"Don't you ever have any fires or accidents in Victoria?" asked a Montreal delegate to the Canadian Authors' convention in the Crystal Garden.

"I have been here three days and I haven't heard a siren once."

What delegates do hear is the joyful shouting of hundreds of children splashing in the pool next door.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Janis Smith, age 13, of St. Albans, W. Va., for her question:

What is a Tasmanian Devil?

At one time he roamed over most of Australia and the nearby islands. But as the settlers advanced, he was driven back because he was a nuisance to the sheep and the chickens. Now the Tasmanian devil survives only in Tasmania, and even there he is very rare.

The fierce little animal looks rather like a three-foot black bear cub, plus a foot of furry tail. His bulky head and powerful shoulders seem too big for his rather weak hindquarters. But his strong jaw muscles, teeth and shoulders make it possible for him to attack animals much bigger than himself. His rough coat is jet black with blotches of white on the throat, shoulders and rump.

The Tasmanian devil is one of the few meat-eating marsupials. Mrs. Devil carries her babies in a pouch. This type of baby care is fashionable in Australia and the nearby islands. Mrs. Kangaroo, Mrs. Wallaby and Mrs. Koala also carry their babies in pouches, which is why they are called marsupials.

Most marsupials feed on greenery, but the Tasmanian devil is a hungry meat eater, always prowling for food. His favorite hunting grounds are along the banks of streams and rivers. There he searches out rats, mice and frogs. He often crunches a crusty crab in his powerful jaws. When this food is scarce, the black devil raids the sheep folds and chicken coops—which is one reason why the settlers gave him such a strange name.

Another reason is his blood-curdling yell. Mr. Devil often hunts by night. From time to time he pauses in his prowling to let out a long snarling yell, ending with a throaty cough. If you happen to be out at night in devil country, you might find this sound rather spooky.

Moved From Pouch to Nest

The baby devils are born in May and spend a month in mama's fur-lined pouch. They are then too big to be carried around and their mother builds them a nest of grasses, safely hidden in the rocks. Soon the little devils are big enough to explore the world. Mama takes them on hunting trips and teaches them how proper devils should behave.

Actually, the Tasmanian devil is not so black as he is painted. He is a fierce hunter because he needs meat. He raids the farmer's sheep and chickens because his natural food is scarce. And this time was made scarce by the farmers who settled the land. When a little devil is captured as a kitten, he becomes a darling pet. With no hunting problems on his mind, he

Bike 'Blessing' Raid

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec City's annual bicycle-blessing ceremony was rudely interrupted Wednesday when city police arrived and began confiscating unlicensed and improperly equipped bikes. Youthful defaulters snatched their vehicles and fled. Scheduled lectures on safety were cancelled after the crowd had dispersed.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Beautiful Joan Collins, the British doll and movie star, fled a party in anger the other morning after an encounter with disc jockey Freddie Robbins whom she accused of saying on the air that she is "over 36."

Like all glamor girls, Miss Collins is sensitive about her age—and she's far from 36. When she left the party, her young escort, Warren Beatty, brother of Shirley MacLaine, departed, too.

"I love Joan," Robbins explained later. "It was a misunderstanding. I never said her age was over 36—I said her measurements were over 36."

Marilyn Monroe and Liz Taylor have been making bronchitis glamorous. Marilyn went into a hospital here with it—and remained. Liz went into Harkness Pavilion—and left.

Liz was too sick to go to a party for 130 she was giving at Chateau Henry IV honoring Natalie Wood and Bob Wagner. Eddie Fisher took over—though his mother just had another attack and was in Harkness.

Eddie looked very mature, smoking a cigar and with a glass in his hand. That reminded writer Eli Basse how Eddie's mgr. Milton Blackstone always wanted him pictured in his cafe act as an innocent boy.

"That's right," smiled Eddie. "To him, I'm still Pat Boone."

Appearing on Mitch Miller's TV show, Eli Basse said, "Hi Skitch—I mean Mitch. I can't keep my beards straight."

Lt.-Col. John Eisenhower's wife Barbara met Joey Adams' wife Cindy in Honolulu, admired her dress and asked where she'd got it. From Scars, said Cindy. Young Mrs. Eisenhower said, "I've heard of him—my mother-in-law has some of his gowns." Cindy blurted: "Your mother-in-law must be loaded. This guy charges an arm and leg!"

THE MIDNIGHT EARL ... Movie actress Erin O'Brien's Hollywood friends were skeptical when she reconciled with her husband Jimmy Fitzgerald—but she's expecting her next baby in a couple of months. ... Chicago's new "Happy Medium" Theatre will serve spectators booze right at their seats, believed to be the only place where it's done.

Polynesian food's reaching even to the steak and barbecue rib state, Texas! Western Hills Hotel, Fort Worth, built a $500,000 Polynesian Village. ... Gloria Vanderbilt and Sidney Lumet have a new $10,000 pool at Greenwich, Conn. ... Sandra Church is going to paint, paint, paint when she takes her vacation from "Gypsy." She paints to relax.

EARL'S PEARLS: "I don't like to repeat gossip," says Buddy Rouch, "but what else can you do with it?"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: George Jessel wants to get in to some small business—something like designing bikinis.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "Everybody hated me at school because I was too popular," Ukie Sherin.

A THOUGHT FOR DIETERS: "What's the use of keeping your figure if you don't have strength left to push it around?" ... That's earl, brother.

Willey Wins on 21st Green In Great Duel With Bigelow

By DOUG PEDEN

For a guy who claims he was scared, Ron Willey performed with remarkable precision on his way into today's semifinal round of the 59th annual Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament.

The blond Vancouver better, who is shooting for his second successive title in this PNGA scramble at Victoria Golf Club, admits he gets the jitters every time he has to tackle the par-three second hole of the compact little par-69 course by the breakers.

And Ron had to face the bunker-bordered bit of manicured grass three times in Friday's two wind-buffed rounds of match play.

The first time was on his morning trip against Dick Price and he had to battle all the way before nailing down a one-up decision over the talented Longview, Wash., swinger at the 18th green.

The 1959 British Columbia amateur king grabbed an even tougher tiger by the tail in his afternoon round and was forced to face that second green twice before getting by Victoria veteran Dr. George Bigelow on the third extra hole.

All square after 18 holes.

TIPS FROM THE TOP

Youthful Biff Lovett came to right source in quest for knowledge of Victoria Golf Club course when he queried retired pros Phil Taylor (left) and Dave Black of Vancouver. Taylor was pro at Oak Bay club for 37 years, and waged a series of dramatic battles with Black when duo dominated professional golf in the province during their com-

Efficient Attack Is Her Defence

Mrs. Tom Harrison has done some mighty efficient attacking for a gal who took up golf in self-defence.

The little shotmaker from Portland's Waverly Country Club says she started the fairway pastime in self defence in her 30th summer in order to spend more time with her golfing husband.

That was 10 years ago and a few weeks back, the energetic Calgary-born swinger was runner-up in the race for the Portland City title. Last week she won the Helen Detweiler Invitational at Portland and today she was shooting for a berth in the final of the 59th annual Pacific Northwest Golf Association championships.

Mrs. Harrison, who seldom strays from a down-the-middle course on the fairways and gladly admits to her 40 years, made it into today semi-finals Friday at Uplands Golf Club.

SPOKANE TURNS DOWN AMATEUR HOCKEY BID

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Senior amateur hockey in the Spokane Coliseum was ruled out by the Spokane city council Thursday as the council granted the professional Spokane Comets an exclusive contract for hockey at the big arena.

The Western International League group had asked the council for 20 playing dates on Coliseum ice.

Councilman Del Jones, said the arrangement with the Western Hockey League Comets during the past few years has meant an additional $250,000 to the city from use of Coliseum facilities.

The WHL club has 35 games set for Coliseum ice this season.

Manitoba Takes Over Position of Favorites

MANITOBA (CP)—Manitoba, thought officially to be an also ran, must now be considered favorites to win the inter-provincial junior cricket tournament being played here this week.

Thursday they passed British Columbia's total of 73 with five wickets in hand. Manitoba's lead in the competition was guaranteed by a stunning upset on the other ground, where Alberta, previously winless, scored 91 and dismissed Ontario for 71.

Manitoba have won three and lost one. B.C. and Ontario are each 2-2 and Alberta is 1-3. B.C.'s batting performance against Manitoba's accurate bowling and superlative fielding was pitifully weak. The team suffered a disaster when John Brierley, who was batting with confidence, was run out for 24.

Michael Edwards of Manitoba bowled 20 overs, sending back three men for 29 runs and Showcat Baksh spun out four batsmen for a mere eight runs.

Bob Ellis, the only other batsman who seemed likely to stay, was also run out with his score at 16.

His opponent is Bob Jacob of Toronto, who upset junior Davis Cup squad member Brian Flood of London, Ont.

Vancouver Shares Boxla Loop Lead

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—Vancouver extended its win streak to six straight games and moved into a first-place tie with New Westminster Thursday night by defeating New Westminster 16-7 in an Inter-City Lacrosse League game before 1,000 fans.

Vancouver led 5-2 at the end of the first period, 7-3 at half-time and 10-4 after three periods.

Playing coach Bob Marsh and defenceman John Cervi each had five-point nights for Vancouver on two goals and three assists. Wayne Pecknold and Bob Parry each tallied three goals for the winners.

Rookie goaltender Merv Schweitzer, subbing in the New Westminster nets for the injured Les Norman, had an off night, stopping only 15 shots while allowing 16 goals.

A total of 30 minutes of penalties was called, 16 to New Westminster and 14 to Vancouver.

The win was costly for Vancouver, who lost skipper Gordie Gimple early in the first period with an aggravated knee injury.

Fraser Gains Toronto Finals

TORONTO—John Fraser of Victoria moved into the finals of the junior men's singles division of the Metropolitan junior tennis championships Thursday by defeating Hugh Parker of Toronto.

His opponent is Bob Jacob of Toronto, who upset junior Davis Cup squad member Brian Flood of London, Ont.

Morrison's To Host Port Angeles

Morrison Motors will play the second half of its home-and-home series with Port Angeles when the two senior softball clubs meet Sunday in two games at Heywood Avenue Park.

Game times will be 2:30 and 5:45 p.m.

In a Heywood Avenue League game Thursday, Chinese Students beat MacNuts, 13-4. In a Central Park League futsal, Sooke Builders blanked Tudor House, 12-0.

SOLARIUM DERBY CENTURY CLUB

Jack James hasn't taken time for fishing this year because he's building a house—but he has found enough time for his usual work with the Solarium Derby.

James has again sold enough tickets to the July 24 fishing competition at Saanich Inlet to qualify for membership in the Century Club, reserved for those who sell over 100 tickets to the annual salmon derby. All proceeds from the event, sponsored by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the Daily Times, aid the crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Jack has done a lot of fishing in the past and he admits to his share of luck, but he's not unduly unhappy about the fact that the house and the derby will keep him off the water until later in the summer.

"Those children at the Solarium deserve everybody's support," he says. "I'll sell tickets whenever I have the time to provide you with a '51 derby ticket if you call."

Jack will be pleased to arrange for him at EV-5-0430.

MAWLE ENJOYING BEST SEASON AT SPEEDWAY Bob's Rapping on Wood

Robert William Mawle is a grand old veteran of stock car racing at 27. And after almost 10 years of pushing race cars around Vancouver Island tracks, Bob still has to discover the sensation of rolling over.

The Victoria mechanic, a leading favorite when the stock cars line up for Saturday's 40-lap Roy White Memorial Trophy race at Western Speedway, is the last of the "originals" who still hasn't applied for membership in the Rollover Club.

In fact, Bob is the only one of the first group of drivers who started when Western Speedway opened, not to have rolled over.

And let's knock on wood," he says emphatically. Mawle is enjoying his finest season since the old dirt track was replaced by asphalt at the Langford oval. Two victories last week, including one in the trophy dash, has moved Bob into fourth place in the individual drivers' standings.

Now he's aiming at the Roy White Trophy, first of Vancouver Island's triple crown for stock car drivers. The other big races are the Gold Cup of the first group of drivers who started when Western Speedway opened, not to have rolled over.

Saturday's time trials get under way at 7:30.

Fire Hazard Continues To Keep 1,000 Jobless

Major logging companies in the mid-island area remained shut-down today in the face of "extreme hazard" in the woods, brought about by two weeks of continuous dry weather.

About 1,000 men are affected.

Both air humidity ratings and hazard sticks are close to the danger levels of 31 and six and one-half respectively, and although there has been no general closure order by the government, there have been many voluntary shutdowns.

MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. has stopped its Copper Canyon (Chemainus) and Shawigan division operations, and is working on a day-to-day basis at Nanaimo, where the fire hazard is near the danger level.

EARLY SHIFT

Larger operations in the Cowichan Lake area also are shut down, although a number of small operators are at work on early shift.

Comox logging division of Crown Zellerbach Canada Limited is closed for holidays.

Debentures Issued for School Sites

(From Duncan Bureau)

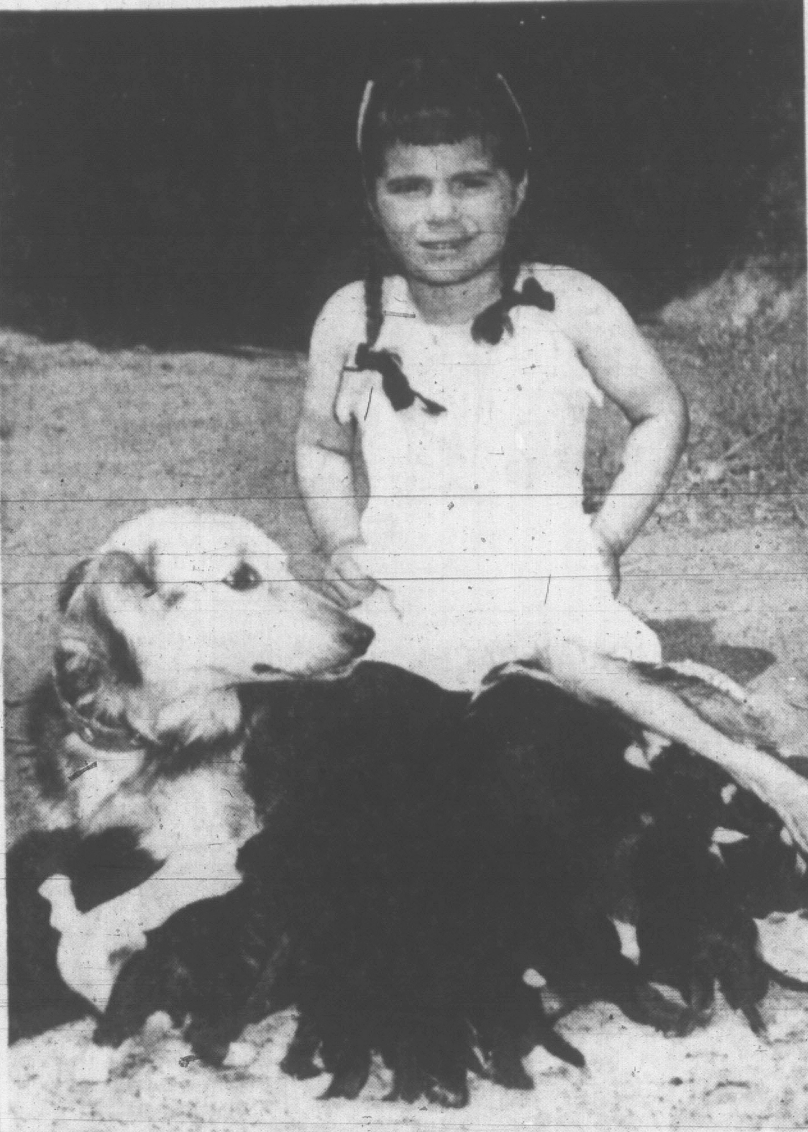

Trustees of Cowichan School District 65 Thursday approved the issue and sale of $100,000 worth of debentures to raise $94,000 of the $1,155,292 authorized by the ratepayers in a bylaw passed last year.

The money will be used for acquiring and developing school sites. It is the first sum to be raised on the authority of the 1959 bylaw.

A large delegation of residents from Cowichan Station attended a meeting of the board to protest the transfer of a teacher who has taught "most of her life" at Cowichan Station.

The woman applied for a transfer, and has been given a teaching position at Bench School.

The reason given by chairman of the management committee, Trustee Grant Loveth, was that a "situation had developed at Cowichan Station and this was the only way to solve it."

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Tugmen Pay Thank You Call

GANGES—Officials of the Foss Launch & Tug Co. of Tacoma, made a visit here to thank Salt Spring Island residents for their rescue efforts following the sinking of the tug Henry Foss with the loss of six lives.

The Port Angeles-based vessel struck a rock near Beaver Point in an early morning storm, Friday, February 13, last year. The seven men in the crew made their way to a capsized lifeboat, but one by one they succumbed to the cold and drifted away.

Sole survivor was Edward Hanson, who was spotted by Edward Lacey, captain of the ferry Cy Peck, which was making its regular run to the outer Gulf Islands. Searches continued until all bodies were recovered.

The company officials arrived here aboard the company ship Thea Foss, which was built 30 years ago for the late John Barrymore and was known then as the Infanta.

From Duncan Bureau

North Cowichan municipal building permits totalled $107,643 for June this year compared with $93,450 for the same period in 1959.

Permit values to date this year have reached a figure of $444,320, below the $595,941 total for the same period last year.

NANOOSE—Summer camp program at Nanoose Bay Pentecostal Camp will start Monday with a week-long session for boys of from eight to 12 years.

Girls' camp will start a week later, and both will be under the direction of Rev. L. Max Simmons, of Chemainus, camp supervisor.

Programs for both will include swimming, sports, hiking, handicraft work and campfire sessions.

The registrar is Mrs. Alfred Hitchen, 4567 West Saanich Road, who still has space for 15 boys and 20 girls in the seaside camp.

Between July 24 and August 7, Rev. Cordas C. Burnett, of Santa Cruz, Calif., will conduct a camp meeting for the whole family. A "teen camp" for young people of 13 years and older will be held August 8 to 14, with evangelist Byron Lee Wright and musician Paul Myers, both of Dayton, Kentucky, in charge of the program.

Nanaimo Takes On Retarded Classes

Nanaimo school board will take over classes for retarded children in September.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson announced today that Nanaimo district was the third to assume this responsibility under a new education policy. Victoria and Vancouver have already acted.

At present the Nanaimo Association for Retarded Children runs the classes, held at Christopher Robin School. Mr. Peterson said he expected there would be 15 pupils in September.

CONSTRUCTION START SOON ON PEACE HYDRO

Peace River Power Development Co. plans to start preliminary construction late this fall on its huge hydro scheme in northern B.C.

W. C. Mainwaring, president of the company, said Thursday private backers already have funds available for construction of a pilot tunnel between Hudson Hope, site of the first dam to be built, and Portage Mountain, site of a second dam.

The entire project will cost about $680 million.

Mr. Mainwaring said it would be September before an application for a certificate of convenience and necessity is filed with the Public Utilities Commission.

Also to be obtained is a water licence from the government.

"People are in the area now doing field work," said Mr. Mainwaring. "We still hope the pilot tunnel will start this fall or early winter."

Seattle Police Top Shots

Victoria detectives Nap Bouchard and Alex Briggs placed first and second in the Victoria police aggregate shoot at the 41st annual Victoria City Police Revolver Club meet completed Thursday at Thetis Lake range.

Visiting Seattle police took the main honors.

Grand aggregate winners were Gene Steele and Jack Orewiler.

The Vancouver police team won the 22 and 38 calibre events, followed by Seattle.

Range officer Ted Japar said "shooting was good in all classes," despite a high wind.

Victoria winners in various classes were Robert Mair, Quinton Mar, Angus Stewart, Clive MacFarlane, Norman Hansen, Hilda Settle, Ted Harris, Brian Ferguson and Ron Coulter.

The meet ended with a banquet and dance Thursday at Chez Marcel.

School Need Survey Precedes New Bylaw

Preliminary work is under way towards drafting Greater Victoria school district's fifth multi-million-dollar building bylaw.

Information is being sifted now by school board officials to establish estimated needs for meeting the next increase in the school population.

The bylaw will be put to a ratepayer vote at the December civic election, and board trustees, remembering the de-

'Snake' Pipe Wins Approval

A "snake" pipe from Britain only practical solution to the transmission of natural gas from the lower mainland to Vancouver Island," said Mr. Wicks.

Chief engineer Robert E. Swanson visited factories of British Insulated Callendar Cables Ltd. to run tests which proved the pipe could take up to 4,700 pounds per square inch of pressure. Magna's "working pressure" would be 1,500 pounds.

The eight-inch pipe has a plastic core of five inches in diameter. This is covered with lead. Steel tapes are wrapped around the lead and strands of steel cable go on top of them. A layer of jute is next covered by the outer rubber sheathing.

The pipe is made in sections "several miles long," said Mr. Wicks.

It's expected work on the pipeline will start this summer.

TURNED DOWN

Island Transmission, Ltd., also applied to Mr. Wicks for leave to build the line, but its bid was rejected. It had been previously turned down by the Public Utilities Commission.

Island Transmission still is fighting Magna with an appeal currently before the National Energy Board in Ottawa. The appeal is against rates at which Magna has agreed to buy gas from Westcoast Transmission on the Mainland.

The British pipe, which has a plastic core, can be looped within a six-foot radius.

Rigid steel pipe would require a 1,000-foot radius to make a circle.

Extreme flexibility would protect the gasoline from earthquake damage, and would also make it easier to lay from a special cable ship.

Convention Reigns Supreme

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Second of a Series)
The 1960 campaign for president, vice-president and members of Congress is gaining momentum in the United States.

The American people have clearly shown that they prefer the two-party system. When a third group has appeared it has usually been absorbed into one of the two major parties.

However, many minority parties have challenged the major organizations. The two major political parties — the Democrats and the Republicans — are holding their national conventions this month to adopt party platforms and nominate candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency.

Attending the 33rd Democratic national convention at Los Angeles July 11 will be 4,509 delegates and alternates who will have a total of 1,521 votes. Of these, 761 will be required to nominate a candidate.

Delegates and alternates to the 27th Republican national convention in Chicago July 25 will number 1,331 and will have the same number of total votes.

Needed to nominate the successful candidates are 666 votes.

Party Matter

U.S. political conventions are strictly party events which blend effervescence and hilarity with the serious business of choosing leading political figures to campaign for the presidency and vice-presidency.

While in session the convention is the supreme organ of the party and completes a tremendous amount of work within a few days. Yet it is done amid a sea of flamboyant posters, campaign buttons and badges, cartoons and rousing songs.

The hall is ablaze with flags, bunting and out-size portraits. Delegates directly concerned with the selection of candidates are seated on the main floor according to the state they represent and are identified by placards.

Hundreds of press, radio and TV men are on hand to report the event to the nation and countries abroad.

Private Deals

Back of the official proceedings are the informal but important agreements made in huddles in hotels and backstage anterooms, where candidates and their supporters urge delegates to give them votes for the nominations.

Since 1924 the entire nation has been able to listen to radio broadcasts of the noisy and prolonged demonstrations, lengthy oratory, repeated roll calls and occasional disturbances.

TV has since done more to bring these conventions into American homes. In 1952, 39 per cent of all American homes were able to see and hear both major party conventions for the first time.

Many U.S. citizens have criticized the convention process, but defenders of the system point out that, behind all the noise and excitement, many able and conscientious citizens are at work.

They say, too, that the convention is basically a democratic process in which large numbers of people have a chance to participate.

Keynote Speech

At each convention a temporary chairman is chosen, usually to deliver the party's keynote speech. After a credentials committee seats the various delegates, a permanent chairman is elected by the delegates and other temporary officers are appointed.

The convention then votes on a platform drawn up by the platform committee to set forth the party's avowed principles and goals.

By the third or fourth day, presidential nominations are under way. The chairman calls the roll of states alphabetically. A state may place a candidate in nomination or yield to another state.

Voting — alphabetically, by voice vote, begins after all nominations have been made and seconded. A simple majority is required in each party, although this may require many ballots.

Finally, the vice-presidential nominee is selected. He must be acceptable to both the presidential candidate and the party.

After the candidates for president and vice-president are selected, the election campaign increases in intensity culminating in the nation-wide polling in early November.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court Wednesday:

George Charles Graham, 508 Garbally, and Bruno Huber, 905 Richmond, $10 each for failing to notify Motor Vehicles Branch of a change of address.

Alberta M. Brown, 4125 Birtles, $10 for failing to obey a school patrol flag's direction to stop.

In Saanich police court Thursday:

R. Dunnett, $40 and licence suspension for careless driving and $45 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Thomas Daniel Robertson, 3577 Saanich, $50 and licence suspension for careless driving.

John Knox, 2512 Douglas, $25 for speeding over 50.

APPEAL FOR END to nuclear testing was made by comedian Steve Allen Thursday before Democratic national convention platform committee. Allen represented the Hollywood chapter of "Sane," a national organization favoring a test halt.

Shipments of Canada's chemicals and allied products group of industries were a record $1,376,600,000 in 1959.

ARMS CONTROL BODY URGED

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller urged the United States Thursday to create immediately at the highest level of government "a fully-staffed agency to inspire and coordinate all activities bearing upon arms control and inspection."

"The ultimate purpose of all our efforts must be to reduce the danger of war and the occasion for aggression," he said.

THE BRITISH AMERICAN OIL COMPANY LIMITED

One-Act Scope Limited

The one-act play is limited in time and scope and seldom makes much money, playwright Roland Goodchild told the Canadian Authors Association at its annual convention Thursday afternoon.

"You have only dialogue in which to interpret your characters and your story, and every word you choose must be directed to that end," Mr. Goodchild said, many of the writers of one-act plays present stage directions that cannot be carried out in a theatre, but might be practicable in a large arena.

"In one play I read, the writer required a motorcyclist to travel across the stage at 40 miles an hour."

SATISFACTION

Speaking from personal experience, Mr. Goodchild said there is considerable satisfaction to be gained from "seeing your own ideas come to life on a stage—even a small stage in a small town."

He listed the three main essentials of a one-act play as characterization, contrast and conflict. There should also be a human problem.

"When the curtain goes up your audience must feel they are really peering behind the scenes into the private lives of your characters."

FINALITY

"And when you have presented your story, the curtain must ring down on a note of finality. There must be no doubt as to what has happened. Festival adjudicators see the same play over and over again—but they are paid to do so."

During the evening many of the 175 delegates to the convention travelled out to Butchart Gardens for the symphony concert and enjoyed a picnic supper provided by the T. Eaton Co. Ltd.

New Education Deal Asked

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's only Indian senator recommended Thursday that education of his people be taken away from religious denominations.

Senator James Gladstone (P.C. Alberta) said in the Senate that the time is approaching when all Indian education should be handled directly by the federal government. The form of education provided should be comparable with that in non-Indian communities.

"Although the missionaries have contributed much to the development of my people, many of our reserves have reached the point where education could be handled more effectively as a non-church enterprise."

"In addition, this would give the missions more opportunity to concentrate on the religious and welfare problems of the status of an Indian to a non-Indian."

The Alberta senator said the committee was reassured by Citizenship Minister Fairclough that this section will be removed or revised.

Lower House Wednesday and the Senate today. Its main recommendation is that the federal government be stripped of its power to change the

SERVICE PAY BOOST HINTED

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Peakes held out hope Thursday for a pay increase for the armed forces.

He said consideration is being given to increasing pay and allowances in the armed forces.

Mr. Peakes added all civilian defence employees likely will get a salary increase this year.

Tremendous power of airborne firefighter is packed in concentrated punch.

Water Bomber Gets First Fire

The giant Martin Mars fire-bomber took off on its maiden mission this morning from Sproat Lake, near Port Alberni.

B.C.'s new forest fire-fighter at press time was heading for Powell Lake, scene of a brisk 100-acre blaze.

It carried a 7,000-gallon water "bomb" and was expected to reach the fire—near Powell River—early this afternoon on its first operational test.

The aircraft "loaded" on the run as it taxied across the lake.

Two scoops either side of the fuselage gather in water as it skims over the water in take-off. This means that by the time the heavy payload is aboard, the aircraft is almost airborne.

HAZARD GROWING

However, the hazard has been slowly creeping up after the wet spring and early summer.

This week the forest service rated nearly all the province as having "moderate" fire hazard.

Continued hot weather will keep the hazard high, and a steady increase in fires is expected this month.

Victoria Daily Times

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, JULY 8, 1960—PAGE 17

Polio Danger Worst Since '53

Public Apathy Worries Medical Authorities

Greater Victoria is heading into the worst polio epidemic season since 1953 when more than 150 were hit by the disease, and city doctors are worried because the public isn't.

Both Victoria Medical Society and medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy today urged parents to have their children inoculated, and themselves too.

The blunt warnings followed hospitalization of the fifth polio case here this season and a statement by the B.C. Foundation for Child Care, Polio-myelitis and Rehabilitation that half of the province's 53 cases this year have been under the age of six.

The statements were aimed at an apparent public apathy. Dr. Mahaffy said a special program of inoculations for adults had brought out only 1,000 persons and "half of them never came back even for their second shots. They don't seem to realize there is no protection until the third shot."

NEED BOOSTER

Victoria Medical Society's polio committee "recommends a booster injection for those who have had their initial series of three injections more than two years ago," said Dr. A. F. McGill, VMS president.

"This booster injection should be obtained from the public health department or from the family doctor."

"This recommendation is based chiefly on the fact that some people do not develop adequate protection until after the fourth inoculation."

Dr. McGill said present indications "point to an increased incidence of poliomyelitis this year, with the chief danger in the next few months."

Dr. Mahaffy said school children and adults can obtain shots any Wednesday afternoon at the health department's office, 1947 Cook. Pre-school children can receive shots any Thursday afternoon.

'SWEEPERS DELAYED

Heavy weather off the Oregon coast has delayed return of the Second Canadian Minesweeping Squadron from squadron exercises in California waters.

Originally scheduled to return to Esquimalt Harbor today, HMC ships James Bay, Fortune, Cowichan and Miramichi are now due at 8.30 a.m. Saturday.

STILL WITH US

Balloon-oo-ns! Who'll Buy Our Balloons?

The 64 centennial balloons that bedeviled Victoria's centennial celebrations committee are up for sale again.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, chairman of the centennial trust fund committee, has been authorized to try to dispose of the seven-foot canvas balloons and several thousand feet of 1/4-inch and 1/2-inch nylon rope that were used as stays.

"I will try to sell the balloons to Seattle for its 1962 World's Fair," he said.

"The nylon rope will be sold locally for the best possible price we can get."

Disposal of the nylon cord—in great demand among yachtsmen and horsemen—will be easy but the multi-colored balloons that were imported from Britain will be another proposition entirely.

BLADDERS BLAMED

The balloons were put into storage here after efforts to keep them inflated failed when they were strung across downtown streets as centennial decorations in 1958. Weak bladders were blamed for the trouble.

The city sold the balloons to Granby, Que., for a special celebration last year but the eastern city reneged on the deal. However, tests made at that time apparently turned up a bladder that was strong enough to keep the balloons inflated.

Victoria's centennial committee, using special donations from local merchants, purchased the balloons from London, Eng., association of merchants.

All proceeds from the sale of the balloons and nylon cord will be put into the centennial trust fund which now totals $13,500—the unpaid balance of the centennial committee's budget. The fund has been earmarked for assistance in planning a Greater Victoria civic auditorium.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What's happened to the big fighting planes carrying thousands of gallons of water that were bought to fight forest fires? E.T.

A. Only one of the four Martin Mars bombers is operational so far and is stationed at Sproat Lake. Operators are giving it a season to find any possible "bugs" before conversion of the other three. At noon today the operating plane was dumping water on a fire near Powell River, in its first try at "the real thing." (See above).

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

MONTE ROBERTS

Everybody who's ever been to a dentist will want to hear about Melody Whittaker.

Melody, the youngest and smallest of the Sir Lancelot (more power to him) Whittaker clan, is known to one and all as Midge.

Well, Midge was escorted to the dentist the other day, and ensconced in the chair of honor.

Drills whined, water gurgled, the nurse hovered, the dentist reached for the tools of his trade, and Midge fell fast asleep.

No drugs, no hypnosis. Just plain sleepy-by.

You'll remember reading, earlier this week, about Ken Gooding, the ex-Victorian who is planning to get away from it all in the West Indies.

Ken, accompanied by a New Zealander named Nat Chalmers, is embarked on a 7,000-mile cruise in his well-equipped 38-foot ketch.

He planned to leave Victoria Wednesday night, but delayed sailing when weather reports indicated stiff winds in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Said a friend who was down to see them off: "That's a wise move. Don't you go taking any chances, now."

"Don't worry," said Chalmers. "We won't. We're both cowards."

I have a feeling they'll arrive at their destination in one piece.

Which magazine do you read?

Speaking of John Diefenbaker, the current Maclean's says:

"A closer analysis of (his) position reveals that his office . . . is forcing on him a fairly serious money problem . . . he sold his interest in his Prince Albert law firm for what one friend calls a pitifully small sum."

Speaking of John Diefenbaker, the current issue of Time says:

"A well-off lawyer in his own right, in the past he often turned down lucrative law cases that interfered with his parliamentary duties."

VIVID PORTRAYER

of wild life, Robert H. Savery, has an outstanding display of his work on view at the Canadian Authors' Association convention in Victoria this week.

Western director for the Outdoor Writers of Canada, Mr. Savery was born and studied in England. He believes that his aim of presenting a fuller picture of animal life—unsentimental and full of action—will make for sane conservation of Canadian wild-life.

'CHILDISH ATTITUDE'

Authors Warned On Moral Values

The modern trend of doubting traditional moral and religious values was strongly denounced today by the Rev. Frederick Wilkes, author and script-writer from Montreal, at the Canadian Authors' Association Convention in the Crystal Garden.

Well-known authors such as the elder Huxley, Maugham and even Freud in their writings had displayed a childish attitude towards religion, he claimed. Some American psychiatrists had advocated scientific rather than religious solutions to moral problems. He termed this the "clinical and cynical" approach.

"This attack on religion constitutes one of the greatest threats to our civilization," he said.

"What we need is not a scientific revolution in moral and religious fields but a moral revolution in scientific fields."

Rev. Wilkes was speaking in a discussion on "The moral obligations of an author."

Earlier Dr. Brock Chisholm, of Victoria, former head of the World Health Organization, told authors their duty was to extend peoples concept of survival so as to include the whole human race.

The old idea of group survival—families, religions, nations, etc.—was totally unacceptable and out of date. It could even be dangerous.

"The concepts of our ancestors are no longer any good," he said. "Now each nation can only survive if the whole human race survives."

After three years as president of the association, H. Gordon Green, of Montreal has stepped down. He has been succeeded by Donald W. Thompson, of Ottawa.

Water Rates Hearing Postponed

Public hearing set for Tuesday by public utilities commission on a city application to boost retail water rates in Esquimalt probably will be postponed.

Representatives of the two municipalities met for two hours Thursday in an effort to reach a settlement of an Esquimalt objection to parts of the application.

Another meeting was to be held later this month between the representatives, with the city providing more supporting data for its claim that it is entitled to include debt interest and some charges in main extensions for purposes of calculating the rate base.

NEED TIME

"I'm hopeful that the whole thing will be settled before the end of the month," said one participant in the talks.

"In the meantime we'll have to ask the PUC to postpone the hearing date to give us time."

The city seeks a boost of 40 per cent in rates "charged to average residential consumers. The increase is designed to offset a 30 per cent increase in wholesale rates and give the city a "fair return" on its investment in water distribution systems for the city and Esquimalt.

SPCA Manager Resigns Post

Executive of the Victoria Branch, B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, unanimously accepted the resignation of secretary-manager Philip Wilkinson Thursday evening.

He tendered the resignation at a special meeting called by the branch president, Cameron Webster, "to receive and consider a report regarding the day to day conduct of our operation by our manager."

Mr. Wilkinson, a retired air force officer with the rank of Wing Commander, had been in the post for nearly a year.

will benefit from $1,650 presented to city today by Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen Club out of its boat show proceeds.

Accepting cheques for city is Geoffrey Edgelow, public works chairman and honorary member of the club,

TOPICS OF THE DAY

To accommodate persons who like to shop Friday evenings, the Art Gallery has changed its open evening from Friday to Thursday.

The gallery will be open Thursday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

Siegfried Marquardt, 3195 Exeter, was charged in Saanich police court Thursday with a violation of the building code.

Magistrate William Ostler fined him $20 for failing to remove all topsoil and vegetable matter from a proposed building site before setting the foundation.

Winners of the weekly tournament Thursday of the All-masters Duplicate Bridge Club were Liliane Lebutt and Simon Marinker; Eric Goodwin and James Duprau; Velma Acres and George Morgan.

If they gave away "good citizen" awards by the day, Harry Lou Poy would certainly qualify.

Residents at Cadboro Bay near Sinclair Road praise his civic outlook.

The president of a fruit and vegetable concern, Mr. Poy, after clearing a five-acre site of his own near the beach, turned the bulldozer down to the beach itself and piled up logs.

Result: A clean beach. Cost to Mr. Poy: About $60.

Three Victoria members of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada were among 143 men completing a historic commemorative march this week from Swift Current to Cut Knife, Sask., following the route taken by the regiment in 1885 during the Riel Rebellion.

The Victorians are Rfn. Bill Liggett, Rfn. Ronald Sears and L/Cpl. Dave Stones.

By PENNY SAVER

One of the happiest—if slightly unusual—scenes I saw downtown this morning was a family of American tourists, nonchalantly strolling along one of Victoria's main streets, munching on Melton Mowbray pork pies. Thinking that perhaps there was a "special" on I tried to trace their route and by sheer luck stumbled on their "source of supply."

Making enquiries of the store owner I learned that tourists find these pies, which they've come to associate with Victoria, absolutely irresistible. Only a scant half an hour before, he told me, one American had come in and bought three of his largest pies, big enough to serve four people, to send back home to Los Angeles.

This being the season for picnics I couldn't help thinking how smart we would be to take a hint from our visitors and get some to take along on our next outing. They're delicious whether you serve them hot or cold. Depending on size, you can buy them for 20 cents, 45 cents, 75 cents or $1.25.

Other suggestions for picnic meals are local cooked crabs that sell for 45 cents or 60 cents, depending on size, and fresh ready-to-eat shrimps that cost $2 a pound. Used in a salad one pound of shrimps is enough for four hearty appetites. If you're in the mood for roast chickens these can be bought, all ready to pop into the hamper, for $1.75 for a 1½-pound bird or $2.50 for a juicy 2½-pounder. These all have a tasty sage dressing that will tempt the person who says, "I just don't get hungry in warm weather!"

Fresh fruit is a must when you're eating outdoors! It's plentiful and prices are coming down. I've seen bananas selling at 33 cents for two pounds; local cherries priced at 43 cents a pound while ripe peaches and nectarines sell at three for 25 cents.

Should you be thinking of baking some fruit pies to surprise your family there are both red and black currants, priced at 35 cents a pound; loganberries selling at 65 cents for two boxes and raspberries, priced at 65 cents for two boxes.

Tiny cherry tomatoes that have an intriguing flavor can now be bought for 29 cents a box. Another "special" on normal sized tomatoes allows you to buy two pounds for 25 cents.

Honeymoon In North

A honeymoon in Dawson City and Calgary followed recent marriage of Sylvia Joan Pollard and John Oluf Madsen in All Saints' Anglican Church at Mission City. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. William Carss Pollard, of Victoria, and Henning Madsen, Deroche, B.C., and Mrs. Madsen, Burnaby. White roses and carnations decorated the church for the ceremony at which Rev. Arthur Hives officiated.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. Her white lace-overs-taffeta gown was highlighted with silver metallic embroidery. A matching lace jacket with three-quarter sleeves completed her ensemble. The chapel-length veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Pink roses were in her bouquet.

Pale green taffeta sheath gowns with nylon organza cummerbunds were worn by maid of honor, Miss Barbara Walker, Mission City, and bridesmaid, Miss Janet Pollard, Victoria, sister of the bride. Junior bridesmaids, Miss Ann Madsen, Burnaby, sister of the groom, and Miss Lise Pollard, the bride's sister, Victoria, wore white organza gowns fashioned in bouffant style with pink taffeta cummerbunds.

Philip MacDonald, Vancouver, was best man and ushers were William Read, North Vancouver, and David Pollard, Victoria. P. MacDonald proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in Legion Hall.

A white wool jacket topped the blue linen sheath worn by the new Mrs. Madsen as a going-away outfit. On their return the newlyweds will make their home in Burnaby.

South Seas Shopping Safari Planned for Special Cruise

SAN FRANCISCO — Ruth Rogers, fashion and travel consultant, will conduct a special "South Seas Shopping Safari," sailing aboard the Matson Line Ss Mariposa from San Francisco Aug. 14 and from Los Angeles Aug. 15.

The 45-day voyage will include a "bonus" call at Vancouver, B.C., en route back to San Francisco after visiting Tahiti, New Zealand, Australia, Fiji, Samoa and Hawaii. This will provide round-trip passengers three extra days on the cruise, normally 42 days, in addition to the special call at Vancouver, at no extra cost.

Miss Rogers and her "shopping safari" will blend sightseeing with shopping in the Matson ports of call, starting with Los Angeles, including Papeete, Auckland, Sydney, Suva, Pago Pago, Honolulu and Vancouver.

"The South Pacific is a shopper's paradise," Miss Rogers said. "You can come home with French perfumes from Tahiti, fine wools from New Zealand and Australia, silken saris from Fiji. Ava bowls from Samoa, monkeypoot trays and mummus from Hawaii and exquisite English china from British Columbia."

In Honolulu, a special fashion show will be held for members of the "safari" group at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel. Miss Rogers will model gowns by Pauline Lake. Special fashion shows also will be held in Auckland and Sydney.

The Mariposa's passenger list is limited to 365 persons; all accommodations are first-class and the ship is air-conditioned throughout. The 21,000-ton liner is equipped with gyrofin stabilizers which virtually eliminate the roll of the sea.

Clothing for the trip? Miss Rogers suggests mostly cool summer things for Tahiti and Honolulu, and a light coat for cooler evenings in New Zealand and Australia. Take drip-dry fabrics that can be washed in the complete laundry aboard ship.

Include a raincoat or umbrella, she advises, adding: "But don't bring too much. Remember, the shopping is out of this world."

With Parents

Visiting in the city for week from her home in Vancouver is Miss Grace Scott. She is staying with her parents: Col. G. B. Scott and Mrs. Scott at their home on Wilkinson Road.

DEAR ABBY

Man or Mouse, Lady?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 18 years and up until lately my husband and I got along like a pair of honeymooners. He never worked, but I didn't care because I took in washing. I liked having him around the house. I always knew where he was and he was always around when I wanted him.

Then he went and got himself a job, which spoiled everything. All he needs is a few dollars in his pocket and he is a changed man. He sasses me back and leaves the house without my permission. He was such a sweet, devoted husband until he started making money. I'd give anything to get him back like he was. Can you help me?

TEARS: The only way you can "get him back like he was" is to make him quit his job. But that would be unfair. Now that he has at last acquired some ambition and self-respect, you should encourage this manly (if belated) change for the better. If you really prefer a man who is jobless and beholden—you want a gigolo, not a husband.

DEAR ABBY: I know a gentleman never shakes hands with his gloves on. But is it considered etiquette for a woman to keep her glove on when she shakes hands?

WONDERING: DEAR WONDERING: A lady need not remove her glove to shake hands.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 36. I have never been married but I am not giving up hope. (I'm not desperate and can afford to be fussy.) I have a good position in an office. In fact, I run the office.

My problem is that I have been putting weight on like crazy lately. But now that I have failed myself out, I'm afraid if I lose weight I will have wrinkles where I once had fat. I was no beauty when I was thinner, but I think I'd rather be fat like I am, than thin and wrinkled.

Nong of my good clothes fit me any more and people are beginning to tell me ("for your own good") that I am too heavy. What should I do?

FROM SPREADSVILLE: DEAR FROM SPREADSVILLE: Quit rationalizing and start rationing your caloric intake. Let your physician tell you how much you should lose and how to lose it. If you diet sensibly you won't trade fat for wrinkles.

Confidential to "Curious": A rich girl is "well-travelled"—a poor girl has "been around".

The net result is usually the same.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Guests at After-Five Reception

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross will be guests at an after five reception to be given by Dr. W. A. McElmoyle and Mrs. McElmoyle at their home on Rockland Avenue next Friday evening.

Saturday, His Honor will attend the special ceremonies to be held on the occasion of the City of New Westminster's 100th birthday, and the dedication of their Centennial project "Centennial Lodge," in Queen's Park, New Westminster. Cmdr. Glen McDonald will accompany the Lieutenant-Governor.

From New York

Mr. and Mrs. James Comerford and daughters, Susan and Cathy, who have spent the last four days in Victoria, left Thursday and will visit Banff and Lake Louise before returning to their home in Aug. 10th, N.Y. While here, the visitors stayed at the Empress Hotel and visited with friends, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Peterkin of Lansdowne Road.

At Coffee Hour

Mrs. J. M. Hamon entertained recently at a coffee party in honor of Mrs. T. Roberts, who is presently visiting in Victoria from Pakistan. Party was held at the Hannon home on Brighton Avenue. There were eight guests. Mrs. Roberts is staying with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Watt, at their home on Brighton Avenue.

Home From East

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gelling have returned to their Kings Road home after a two-week trip to Ottawa. While there, they visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gelling, and six-month-old son, Steven. Mrs. Gelling is the former Miss Jacqueline MacDonald of this city.

Prior to Wedding

Prior to her marriage last Saturday, Miss Sylvia Wagg was honored at a shower by co-hostesses Mrs. G. Benjamin and Mrs. A. Nobbs, at the home of the latter at Ganges, Salt Spring Island. Honor guest and her mother, Mrs. Cyril Wagg, received red rose corsage on arrival and gifts were presented in a blue and white decorated box. Other guests included Mrs. F. Barnes, Mrs. H. Day, Mrs. G. Dewhurst, Mrs. A. Francis, Mrs. E. Lumley, Mrs. J. Nelson, Mrs. J. Tomlinson, Mrs. S. Wagg, Mrs. D. Wells, Mrs. M. White, and Misses Ann Hollings, Freda Nobbs, Christa Roberts and Leona Roland.

House Guest

Mrs. A. Taylor, Vancouver, is presently holidaying in Victoria. While here she is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gonnason at their home on Dallas Road.

Aunts Visit

Miss Marie Longpre and Mr. Joseph Longpre of Victoria will have as their guests their aunts, Sister Charles August, St. Boniface, Man., and Mrs. Robert Oakes, Santa Clara, Cal., the former, Pauline Longpre. Sister Charles August will be guest of Sister Ann Celeste, Mother Superior of St. Joseph's Hospital. The visitors are arriving in the city Saturday.

Shower

A decorated umbrella held gifts at a shower given by Mrs. J. Tyrell in her Old Island Highway home in honor of bride-elect Miss Carol Smithson. Guest of honor was presented with white gladioli corsage and her mother, Mrs. J. Smithson, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. May Rogers received pink gardenia corsages. Guests were Mrs. D. J. McNeill, Mrs. L. Pearce, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gowing, Mrs. A. Nadin, Mrs. V. Binny, Mrs. M. Moore, Mrs. T. Gay, Mrs. R. Campbell, Mrs. M. Fraser, Mrs. J. Frost, Mr. J. Benson and the Misses Marie Thomas and Carol Deville.

Valerie Rosenthal Wed in South; Spends Honeymoon in Victoria

A honeymoon trip to Victoria followed the recent marriage of Miss Valerie Rosenthal, formerly of this city, to David Edward Belch, in Swedenborgian Church, San Francisco. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rosenthal, of Victoria, and her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. Belch, of Portland, Ore.

The tall, attractive bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of champagne toned peau de soie. Classic style dress had a fitted bodice, scoop neckline trimmed with flat bows and the skirt was finished with a full train. Her fingertip-length veil was held by a wide flat bow. She carried white gladioli and gold-cymbidium orchids.

For the mid-afternoon ceremony the attendants, Mrs. Robert Chernoff, Victoria, and Mrs. M. R. McDowall, San Francisco, wore short-length gowns in beige peau de soie. They carried bouquets of gold gladioli.

Rev. John C. Smith, executive secretary of the San Francisco Council of Churches, officiated at the wedding.

Richard A. Belch, the groom's brother, was best man, and the usher was Howard Obrentz. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Lois Lamb, in San Francisco. Receptions were also held by the bride's parents during the newlyweds' recent visit in the city, and the groom's parents last weekend at their home in Portland.

For her honeymoon, the bride wore a grey knitted suit in chanel line with brown trim. The young couple are making their home at 140 Diyasadero Street, San Francisco.

Student Nurses to Receive Caps at Ceremony Tonight

Miss Grace Jones, Duncan, who headed her class of 42 student nurses in examinations completing six months of training at the Royal Jubilee School of Nursing will receive a prize this evening at a capping ceremony in the nurses' residence.

Students will receive caps from Miss Mary Richmond, director of nursing, and will light miniature Florence Nightingale lamps from a larger replica representing the school. Hospital administrator, George Masters, will welcome guests. Lamps for students are being provided by the Women's Auxiliary to the hospital.

Roberto Wood will conduct the student nurses' choir in a selection of songs. Later, students will receive New Testament, gift of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Gideon Society and to be presented by Canon R. K. Simpson.

Following the ceremony, members of the Royal Jubilee Hospital Alumnae Association will serve refreshments to the students, their parents and guests.

Receiving caps are the Misses Elizabeth Aitken, Elizabeth Armstrong, Margaret, Belobaba, Audrey Bowler, Wendy Copeland, Maureen Dack, Ellen Daniel, Leslie Evenden, Roberta Fraser, Glenda Gordon, Barbara Gosling, Rosemary Hamilton, Sharon Holdridge, Patricia Holtum, Georgina Hughes, Carol Leggett, Linden Louis, Joan McKinley, Georgia Neale, Judith Norris, Lynne Oliver, Lynne Powell, Kathleen Smith, Marcia Sutton and Ingrid Wetkio all of Victoria; Beverly Beatty, Chase; Louise Cardiff, Grace Jones, Judith Norcross and Rosemary Wood of Duncan; Joan Combe, Avonne Dixon and Sharon McKim of Vernon; Hazel Edgson, Shawnaig Lake; Louise Gair, Terrace; Lois Hansen, Salmo; Carolyn Judd, Prince Rupert; Joan McGunigle, Keremeos; Sharon McKim of Vernon; Sharon Milligan and Ellen Orth of Alberni; Sharon Morgan, Ladysmith, and Eleanor Smith, Kamloops.

Butchart's Romantic Concert Scene

There was an air of romance and gaiety at Butchart Gardens Thursday evening for the first of three concerts presented by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra. Family groups and young couples relaxed informally on the lawns overlooking the famous sunken garden and listened as the orchestra played a light and youthful selection of music suitable to all tastes.

Many strolled through the lovely gardens which later in the evening as dusk drew near, were artfully lighted adding a mystic, fairy tale effect to the scene.

TAKE SUPPER

Among the many Victorians who drove out to attend the concert, carrying their suppers to picnic in the gardens were Capt. W. Redford and Mrs. Redford, Miss Anne Redford, Mr. Hamish Redford, Mrs. John Molson, Montreal, the former Nina Simpson of this city; Mr. and Mrs. Brian Wharf, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Miller, Mr. Gordon Abernethy, Dr. R. M. Lane and Mrs. Lane with Mary, Susan and Ken, and Mr. John Wakefield, Vancouver; Mrs. J. Bruce, Mr. David Price, Mrs. Phyllis Graveley, Miss Joan McKee, Mr. Brian Green, Mr. Michael Audain, Miss Sandra Turner, Vancouver; Miss Pat Green, Mr. Sandy Pogson, Miss Diane Harris, Mrs. Madeline Johnson, Miss Rosalind Midgley, Miss Heloise Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Merston, Miss Barbara Courtney and Miss Mary Spilsbury.

ALSO ATTEND

Others enjoying the concert were Mr. John Gault, Miss Terry French, Mr. Don Wilson, Mr. Peter Bousfield, Miss Sally Hughes, Mr. Colin Creighton, Mr. Malcolm Anderson, Miss Margie Ballard, Mr. Tom Ballard, Vancouver; Mrs. L. Forbes, Sub-Lt. John Rowland and Mrs. Rowland from Dartmouth N.S., and Miss Marilyn McElmoyle.

Reuniting and enjoying a picnic supper together were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chisholm with Mr. and Mrs. Harold McNaughton of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McNaughton of Trail. Visitors from Chalk River, Ont., were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Royston who were with Mrs. Elaine Holm, Victoria.

Quiet Family Wedding Followed By Dinner

A dinner reception followed the recent marriage of Miss Beverly Anne Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hall, 355 Arnot Avenue, and Robert Ervin Sorenson, son of Mrs. Olive Sorenson, 264 Cadillac Avenue. Wedding took place in Centennial United Church. For the afternoon ceremony, Dr. Samuel J. Parsons officiated. Pink gladioli and white Esther Reid daisies decorated the church.

The bride was escorted up the aisle by her father. She wore a deep Wedgewood blue fitted suit and matching accessories. Her deep crown straw hat was in white and she had a corsage of pink roses and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. W. M. Gooding, wore a mauve pink suit, large white hat and corsage of white carnations. Gordon Sorenson was best man.

A wedding cake decorated by B. Gordon centred the lace-covered bridal table, flanked

B.C. ROUNDUP

Sewer Water Used to Fight Smithers' Fire

SMITHERS — Portable pumps were used to draw water from the town sewers Thursday night when water pressure failed while firemen were fighting a blaze which destroyed an apartment building in the centre of this North-western British Columbia community.

Offices, shops and homes in the town centre were evacuated after hoses of the volunteer fire department ran dry at the height of the fire, at the Roodman Apartments that was famed by 25-mile-an-hour winds.

Dozens of bystanders assisted the 25-man brigade in extinguishing the blaze and saving adjoining buildings.

Loss of the building, owned by Jack Roodman of Vancouver, left four families homeless. Cause of the blaze was not known and no estimate of damage was immediately available.

FLUORIDATION BID

VERNON — The Parent Teachers' Association will seek the aid of the Vancouver Dental Association in conducting a campaign here for fluoridation of the city's water supply.

WOMAN KILLED

KAMLOOPS — Police today identified a woman killed in a highway accident Thursday at Monte Creek, B.C., 35 miles east of here.

Dead is Mrs. Norma Cunliffe, of Lloydminster, Sask., wife of RCMP Constable W. H. Cunliffe. The couple had been married a month.

TRAINMAN FOUND

NEW WESTMINSTER — A body found in the lower Fraser River was identified today as that of a 40-year-old trainman who died in the derailment of a CNR freight train near Ashcroft last week.

The body of F. R. Thomson of Kamloops was washed up on an island near Langley.

LOG KILLS BOY

HOPE — A 13-year-old boy was killed Thursday night when struck by a log which rolled over a cliff above him as he was walking beside the Coquihalla River 10 miles east of here.

Police withheld the boy's name. They said he was walking with his father and a friend when the log fell from the top of the cliff and crushed him.

YOUTH DROWNS

KAMLOOPS — Police and skindivers started a search Thursday for the body of Joseph Darwin Nichol of Squilax, who fell out of a boat and drowned in Phillips Lake while trying to swim to shore.

PHILLIPS LAKE IS 40 MILES EAST OF HERE

POLIO VICTIM

PRINCE GEORGE — A 26-year-old married woman Thursday was confirmed as this city's third paralytic polio patient.

Last weekend former city alderman Ken Jack, 42, and 11-year-old Warren Reaville were taken to hospital with the disease.

TEAMSTER MOVE

VANCOUVER — The Teamsters' Union Thursday moved into the airline field.

The Truck Drivers' Union, Local 31 of the Teamsters, said it has organized a group of commissary attendants at Vancouver International Airport.

The teamsters' application to represent the men will be heard next Wednesday by the Canadian Labor Relations Board at Ottawa.

CPLA will intervene. The company says there are several separate bargaining units within the airline and it feels the commissary attendants fall into one of the present units.

Lutherans In Merger

REGINA (CP) — Three Lutheran churches merged Thursday to form the biggest Lutheran church in Western Canada.

The Canadian district of the American Lutheran Church displaced separate organizations of Canada district of the American Lutheran Church, the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

On the third ballot Rev. Karl Holifield, of Regina, president of the old Canadian district for 12 years, was elected president of the new organization. He is the son of a Dafoe, Sask., farmer.

Combined membership of the new church is about 60,000.

Flood Control Loan

LUXTON — Trustees of Bilston Creek Improvement District have been authorized to borrow $8,000 to clear Bilston Creek as a flood control measure.

The creek flows through 400 acres of farm land in this district which is flooded each winter.

PNR MUSIC UNDER FANTASY-MOON

Prince Rupert seeks an injunction against the railway proceeding with construction.

WORK GOES ON

Mr. Gore said the PNR is still under construction. "It was never interrupted."

Jameson Construction of Vancouver is clearing a short distance from the Summit Lake terminus of the proposed line to the Yukon.

The firm is working under a three-month contract arranged through Minshall and Smith Engineering Ltd. which carried out surveys for the PNR.

"We have arranged daily pay for each man," said Mr. Gore. "It is only daily in case the weather changes."

Mr. Gore said rainy weather would halt work. Poor weather was expected within three months. That was why the contract was no longer.

Mayor Lester said he wanted it made clear he wasn't politically opposing the railway. It was an economic question and the reason obvious "by looking at the map."

"We also don't think it should be outside the jurisdiction of the PUC." To say that was "ridiculous—it's splitting hairs."

Mr. Lester said about 100 miles of the start of the proposed railway paralleled the CNR line to Hazelton. This line runs to Prince Rupert on the coast. This stretch would cost $30 million, said the mayor. This would be reflected in any freight rates charges later.

Also "the railway as it is planned would be 700 miles from a port," he said. Shipments would have to go down to Vancouver.

OTHER WRITS

If the line were built from Hazelton it would save $30 million and provide access to the port of Prince Rupert.

"I have received wires from Smithers, Terrace and Kitimat officials offering assistance, said Mayor Lester.

"They have expressed interest in our case."

Asked what assistance might be, he said: "They could put up writs of their own."

It was "very likely" the city would complain as an interested party to the PUC. "It seems as if the railway is almost afraid to go before them," he added.

Unofficially, it was learned the PUC would be willing to consider a complaint from Prince Rupert.

"It appeared the argument would revolve around the PNR's qualifications as a public utility."

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks said Thursday the PNR would not require PUC approval to build its entire line. But once it started operations a certificate would be necessary.

He said it is "quite clear" the PUC feels the same way. PUC chairman Dr. H. F. Angus would not go beyond his statement which he said "speaks for itself."

U.S. Jets Back In Greenland

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. defence department reversed itself Wednesday and decided to send jet interceptor planes back to Thule air base, Greenland, to guard that mammoth "top-of-the-world" installation.

Jets were pulled out four months ago in a move generally considered to be dictated by a manpower and money squeeze. Thule lies astride one of the most likely routes of attack should Russian bombers ever strike North America.

Farm Talks Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today he hopes to be able to set out early next week government plans for meeting western farm groups seeking aid.

'FEED BOY TO SHARKS' KIDNAPPER THREATENS

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—The kidnapper of eight-year-old Graeme Thorne threatened to feed the boy to sharks if he is not paid $25,000 Australian ($50,000) ransom.

Two hours after the boy disappeared on his way to school Thursday the phone rang at the home of Basil Thorne, who won $100,000 in a lottery recently.

Thorne's wife said a male voice with a slight foreign accent said, "Is that you Mrs. Thorne... I have your boy—is your husband there?"

Mrs. Thorne handed the phone to detective Larry O'Shea.

Then the voice went on: "I have your boy... I want $25,000 by 5 o'clock or will feed him to the sharks."

STEVENSON
... awaits draft

... efforts rewarded

COUNT HIM IN

Adlai Solid As Candidate

See also pages 7, 14

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Adlai E. Stevenson said today he would "of course" accept a draft for the democratic presidential nomination. He promised to campaign with "vigor and sense of real purpose" if he gets a third try at the White House.

Stevenson's pledge and renewal of his statement to accept a draft were read to a news conference by Lt. Gov. Glenn Anderson of California, who endorsed the former Illinois governor two days ago. Anderson said Stevenson told him:

"Under circumstances which were understandably difficult, I headed the Democratic national ticket in two campaigns. I have, therefore, felt that it would be presumptuous and arrogant for me to claim squatter's rights or to seek actively a third nomination. "However, if selected by the convention, I will, of course, accept the draft and campaign with vigor."

The Californian appeared at a news conference with Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroey of Oklahoma, leader of the draft-Stevenson organization.

The statement Anderson attributed to the 1952 and 1956 Democratic nominee appeared to be the strongest yet from Stevenson indicating an interest in the 1960 presidential nomination.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown is expected to announce Sunday that he will withdraw as a favorite son candidate and throw his support to front-runner Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

BIG FISH WARY
Kennedy's camp expects at least two other favorite son governors to join Brown in endorsing Kennedy. But there were signs that another Democratic kingmaker might be eluding Kennedy's grasp.

Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas are the two state leaders whom Kennedy's campaign captains hope to lure into an open endorsement of the Massachusetts senator before the Democratic national convention opens Monday.

The troublesome question mark for Kennedy's lieutenant was Gov. David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania. He was the convention's mystery man as the proceedings started to heat up.

Lawrence arrived in Los Angeles Thursday night, asserting that neither he nor his big 81-vote delegation would declare for any candidate until a Monday caucus. Then, he said, all the candidates may get some votes from Pennsylvania—and somebody could get a majority.

LOST-CAUSE CHAMPIONS

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Democratic national committeeman Paul Ziffren of California and Sen. Prescott Bush, a Connecticut Republican, are the lost cause champions of this presidential convention year.

Ziffren's lost cause was this: A suggestion that the Democrats—Republicans, too, of course—be honest with the voters about their platform. Bush grabbed the lost cause brass ring with this idea: "That both political parties, in writing their platforms, should tell the voters exactly how much it would cost the taxpayers to fulfill each campaign promise. Fat chance!"

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said today the biggest problem in writing his keynote speech for the Democratic convention is balancing its appeal between the TV audience and convention delegates. If you aim entirely for one listening group, Church said, you may lose the interest of the other.

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (UPI)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who didn't even have an invitation to the Democratic national convention on Monday, is heading for Los Angeles this weekend to play strategist for the pro-Stevenson forces.

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Shortly after midnight a soft-spoken agent came into the still busy press room in convention headquarters with this release: "Good morning. We thought you've had enough urgent releases. Hope you have a nice day."

K Apologizes —Does It Again

VIENNA (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today apologized publicly to his Austrian hosts for making anti-American remarks during his nine-day "goodwill" visit, and then promptly attacked U.S. "monopolists" for blocking world disarmament.

But the Soviet premier reserved his harshest comments for West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer at a press conference before flying back to Moscow.

He warned Russia might sign a peace treaty with East

PNR Would Test Case In Court

Three Communities
Support Prince Rupert

By FRANK RUTTER

A Wenner-Gren spokesman today said the Pacific Northern Railway was willing to defend itself in court as opposition to its plans mounted in B.C.'s north.

Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co., told the Times: "We are willing to go to court to answer Prince Rupert."

At the same time, the north-western communities of Kitimat, Terrace and Smithers backed up Prince Rupert's bid to halt construction of the railway. They would all be bypassed by the 700-mile PNR.

QUALIFIED

Prince Rupert Mayor P. J. Lester said he thought his city qualified as an "interested party" under the Public Utilities Act. As such it might file a complaint with the PUC against the railway for starting work without PUC approval.

This would parallel the court action launched by Prince Rupert June 30, when a writ was served on PNR lawyers.

Mr. Lester said his lawyers were awaiting full text of a statement made Wednesday by the PUC showing reasons for dismissing a railway application for a certificate of convenience.

The statement pointed out an interested party could complain, causing a full hearing into PNR affairs.

RAILWAY ACT

According to the government, the PNR started work under the Railway Act. The railway's lawyers earlier said it did not come under the Public Utilities Act.

The PUC statement said its legal advisers found the PNR to be a public utility and as such, should come under the PUC.

Asked today if the railway would go before the PUC, Mr. Gore said, "It's purely a legal matter. I don't know. It is in the hands of our lawyers."

He said as far as he knew the lawyers have answered the Prince Rupert writ—returnable today. The company was quite willing to fight in court.

ELECTRONIC TRADING

MARKET SUMMARIES

Western Oils, Metals Advance

Although the advance of industrials lost some of its momentum near the close of the day's trading the overall balance was favorable with western oils and base metals moving ahead.

AT TORONTO, in a light session, Slater helped industrials to stay on the plus side with a 5-point gain at 35, with International Paper up 2 points at 99½. Price Brothers up 2½ at 41½ and Howard Smith up 1½ at 38.

Bathurst B dropped 2 points at 35. International Nickel remained ahead among mines with a gain of ½ at 55½, with Cassiar up ½ at 11½, Hollinger and Labrador up 1½ at 22½ and 18.

Home Oil B took the lead among western oils with a 30-cent gain at $8.30 with Home Oil A and Pacific Petroleum both up 25 cents at $8.55 and $9.50.

AT MONTREAL prices were stronger in light trading early this afternoon. Steinberg "A" at 20 and Howard Smith Paper at 38 both gained 1½ to lead winners. Algoma Steel, one of the few losers, dropped ½ at 32.

In mines, International Nickel climbed ½ to 55½ and Asbestos at 22½ lost ¼. AT NEW YORK, steel, motors and rails made gains as the stocks continued to rally late today. Trading was fairly active.

Key stocks rose from fractions to more than a point.

Most important detail as yet unannounced is the interest rate.

The premier said the hydro bonds would be similar to last year's Pacific Great Eastern Railway bonds. They were 5 per cent. But financial advisers were expecting Mr. Bennett to wait as long as he could to get a lower rate.

Advertising for the bonds will start July 15. The premier will go to the Hotel Vancouver Sunday after a sojourn at Kelowna. He will not return to Victoria until July 13.

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is likely to set aside more funds than previously planned for direct home-building loans and to raise the $5,000 income limitation on them, informed sources said Thursday.

The anticipated result of such a step would be to stimulate fall and winter housing construction, providing greater employment in the construction industry and industries serving it.

For several months, the government has limited its direct loans through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to prospective home owners with annual incomes of $5,000 or less.

In announcing the 1960 direct-lending policy some months ago, Works Minister Walker indicated that about $175,000,000 would be available for direct lending, down sharply from the $350,000,000 committed by CMHC last year.

Reliable sources said it is likely the government will increase the direct-lending funds to $200,000,000 or more.

At the same time, the $5,000 limitation is likely to be increased to $7,000 or $7,600, depending on the number of children in the family of the prospective home owner applying for a government loan, these sources said.

$900,000 Wages, 275 Jobs to Go By Mine Closure

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont. (CP)—Announced closure of the Sylvanite gold mine within a year may leave 275 workers unemployed and slice about $900,000 in annual wages from this northern Ontario community's economy.

K. C. Gray, vice-president and general manager of the mine, said Thursday the 33-year-old mine has "just about been cleaned out."

The mine has milled almost 5,000,000 tons of ore and produced 1,621,823 ounces of gold, valued at $58,437,450.

He said the Emergency Gold Mine Assistance Act kept the mine alive for some time but even if the price of gold was higher, it would be uneconomical to continue digging.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax trade was irregular today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, but showed rallying tendencies as the session advanced.

Oats and barley prices were steady with shipping demand reported for both commodities. Mention was made of the 200,000 bushels of Canadian barley to the United Kingdom.

Rye trade was irregular, some buying was stimulated by a small shipment of Canadian rye to the United States. Two, IWA and domestic wheat all were down ½ from Thursday.

International Nickel posted a ½ gain among Canadian issues.

Water Bomber Gets First Fire

The giant Martin Mars fire-bomber took off on its maiden mission this morning for Sproat Lake, near Port Alberni.

B.C.'s new forest fire-fighter at press time was heading for Powell Lake, scene of a brisk 100-acre blaze.

It carried a 7,000-gallon water "bomb" and was expected to reach the fire—near Powell River—early this afternoon on its first operational test.

The aircraft "loaded" on the run as it taxied across the lake.

Two scoops either side of the fuselage gather in water as it skims over the water in take-off. This means that by the time the heavy payload is aboard, the aircraft is almost airborne.

HAZARD GROWING

The B.C. forest service called in the Mars when the Powell Lake fire became dangerous. It covered a 100 acre area in the J. Bell Company operation, a forest service official said.

He said 12 company men were fighting the flames. Although it didn't sound like a major blaze, the official said it could easily flare into a big one. The forest service wanted to nip it in the bud.

The fire is just west of Powell Lake, behind Powell River on the mainland.

FELLED AREA

It broke out late Thursday night in an area of felled and bucked timber, and was sweeping up a hillside.

A forest service official in Victoria described it as "potentially very dangerous indeed." "In no time at all the entire mountain could be ablaze," he said.

Heading for the scene to see the Mars' debut was district forester Ian Cameron of Vancouver, and other forest service officials.

The Mars had previously only undergone test bombing runs. Effect of today's real fire test will likely decide if three other Mars at Patricia Bay will be converted to fire-fighting use.

SYNDICATE OWNED

The four giant aircraft were purchased last year by a syndicate of lumber firms, which formed Flying Tankers Ltd. The lone Mars in service was converted to a water bomber at Pat Bay and based permanently at Sproat Lake with Pilot Dan McIvor on stand-by during the fire season which started May 1.

The Mars nearly was pressed into service only last week when a multi-million dollar blaze swept B.C. Forest Products plant on False Creek at Vancouver. At that time, however, it was decided the aircraft's "bomb" might damage nearby buildings.

The bomb itself is 7,000 gallons of water and its effect is equal to rainfall of one-third of an inch over one acre.

Forest fires this year have only cost the province $38,000. At the same time last year in hotter weather firefighting had cost $148,703.

HAZARD GROWING

However, the hazard has been slowly creeping up after the wet spring and early summer.

This week the forest service rated nearly all the province as having "moderate" fire hazard.

Continued hot weather will keep the hazard high, and a steady increase in fires is expected this month.

Polio Danger Worst Since '53

Public Apathy Worries Medical Authorities

Greater Victoria is heading into the worst polio epidemic season since 1953 when more than 150 were hit by the disease, and city doctors are worried because the public isn't.

Both Victoria Medical Society and medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy today urged parents to have their children inoculated, and themselves too.

The blunt warnings followed hospitalization of the fifth polio case here this season and a statement by the B.C. Foundation for Child Care, Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation that half of the province's 53 cases this year have been under the age of six.

The statements were aimed at an apparent public apathy. Dr. Mahaffy said a special program of inoculations for adults had brought out only 1,000 persons and "half of them never came back even for their second shots. They don't seem to realize there is no protection until the third shot."

Victoria Medical Society's trust fund committee, has been authorized to try to dispose of the seven-foot canvas balloons and several thousand feet of 1/4-inch and 1/2-inch nylon rope that were used as stays.

"I will try to sell the balloons to Seattle for its 1962 World's Fair," he said. "The nylon rope will be sold locally for the best possible price we can get."

Disposal of the nylon cord—in great demand among yachtsmen and horsemen—will be easy but the multi-colored balloons that were imported from Britain will be another proposition entirely.

The balloons were put into storage here after efforts to keep them inflated failed when they were strung across downtown streets as centennial decorations in 1958. Weak bladders were blamed for the trouble.

The city sold the balloons to Granby, Que., for a special celebration last year but the eastern city reneged on the deal. However, tests made at that time apparently turned up a bladder that was strong enough to keep the balloons inflated.

Victoria's centennial committee, using special donations from local merchants, purchased the balloons from a London, Eng., association of merchants.

All proceeds from the sale of the balloons and nylon cord will be put into the centennial trust fund which now totals $13,500—the unspent balance of the centennial committee's budget. The fund has been earmarked for assistance in planning a Greater Victoria civic auditorium.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—What's happened to the big fighting planes carrying thousands of gallons of water that were bought to fight forest fires? E.T.

A—Only one of the four Martin Mars bombers is operational so far and is stationed at Sproat Lake. Operators are giving it a season to find any possible "bugs" before conversion of the other three. At noon today the operating plane was dumping water on a fire near Powell River, in its first try at "the real thing." (See above).

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times." Editor, Questions and answers will be published daily. All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

MONTE ROBERTS

Everybody who's ever been to a dentist will want to hear about Melody Whittaker. Melody, the youngest and smallest of the Sir Lancelot (more power to him) Whittaker clan, is known to one and all as Midge.

Well, Midge was escorted to the dentist the other day, and ensconced in the chair of honor.

Drills whined, water gurgled, the nurse hovered, the dentist reached for the tools of his trade, and Midge fell fast asleep.

No drugs, no hypnosis. Just plain sleepy-by.

You'll remember reading, earlier this week, about Ken Gooding, the ex-Victorian who is planning to get away from it all in the West Indies.

Ken, accompanied by a New Zealander named Nat Chalmers, embarked on a 7,000-mile cruise in his well-equipped 38-foot ketch.

He planned to leave Victoria Wednesday night, but delayed sailing when weather reports indicated stiff winds in Juan de Fuca Strait.

Said a friend who was down to see them off: "That's a wise move. Don't you go taking any chances, now."

"Don't worry," said Chalmers. "We won't. We're both cowards."

I have a feeling they'll arrive at their destination in one piece.

Which magazine do you read?

Speaking of John Diefenbaker, the current Maclean's says:

"A closer analysis of (his) position reveals that his office . . . is forcing on him a fairly serious money problem . . . he sold his interest in his Prince Albert law firm for what one friend calls a pitifully small sum."

Speaking of John Diefenbaker, the current issue of Time says:

"A well-off lawyer in his own right, in the past he often turned down lucrative law cases that interfered with his parliamentary duties."

'CHILDISH ATTITUDE' Authors Warned On Moral Values

The modern trend of doubting traditional moral and religious values was strongly denounced today by the Rev. Frederick Wilkes, author and script-writer from Montreal, at the Canadian Authors' Association Convention in the Crystal Garden.

Well-known authors such as the elder Huxley, Maugham and even Freud in their writings had displayed a childish attitude towards religion, he claimed. Some American psychiatrists had advocated scientific rather than religious solutions to moral problems. He termed this the "clinical and cynical" approach.

"This attack on religion constitutes one of the greatest threats to our civilization," he said.

"What we need is not a scientific revolution in moral and religious fields but a moral revolution in scientific fields." Rev. Wilkes was speaking in a discussion on "The moral obligations of an author."

Earlier Dr. Brock Chisholm, of Victoria, former head of the World Health Organization, told authors their duty was to extend peoples concept of survival so as to include the whole human race.

The old idea of group survival—families, religions, nations, etc.—was totally unacceptable and out of date. It could even be dangerous.

"The concepts of our ancestors are no longer any good," he said. "Now each nation can only survive if the whole human race survives."

After three years as president of the association, H. Gordon Green, of Montreal has stepped down. He has been succeeded by Donald W. Thomson, of Ottawa.

Water Rates Hearing Postponed

Public hearing set for Tuesday by public utilities commission on a city application to boost retail water rates in Esquimalt probably will be postponed.

Representatives of the two municipalities met for two hours Thursday in an effort to reach a settlement of an Esquimalt objection to parts of the application.

Another meeting was to be held later this month between the representatives, with the city providing more supporting data for its claim that it is entitled to include debt interest and some charges in main extensions for purposes of calculating the rate base.

"I'm hopeful that the whole thing will be settled before the end of the month," said one participant in the talks. "In the meantime we'll have to ask the PUC to postpone the hearing date to give us time."

The city seeks a boost of 40 per cent in rates charged to average residential consumers.

The increase is designed to offset a 30 per cent increase in wholesale rates and give the city a "fair return" on its investment in water distribution systems for the city and Esquimalt.

VIVID PORTRAYER of wild-life, Robert H. Savery has an outstanding display of his work on view at the Canadian Authors' Association convention in Victoria this week. Western director for the Outdoor Writers of Canada, Mr. Savery was born and studied in England. He believes that his aim of presenting a fuller picture of animal life—unsentimental and full of action—will make for sane conservation of Canadian wild-life.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

To accommodate persons who like to shop Friday evenings, the Art Gallery has changed its open evening from Friday to Thursday.

The gallery will be open Thursday from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m.

Siegfried Marquardt, 3195 Exeter, was charged in Saanich police court Thursday with a violation of the building code.

Magistrate William Ostler fined him $20 for failing to remove all topsoil and vegetable matter from a proposed building site before setting the foundation.

Winners of the weekly tournament Thursday of the All-masters' Duplicate Bridge Club were Lillane Leburt and Simon Marinker; Eric Goodwin and James Duprau; Velma Acres and George Morgan.

If they gave away "good citizen" awards by the day, Harry Lou Poy would certainly qualify.

Residents at Cadboro Bay near Sinclair Road praise his civic outlook.

The president of a fruit and vegetable concern, Mr. Poy, after clearing a five-acre site of his own near the beach, turned the bulldozer down to the beach itself and piled up logs.

Result: A clean beach. Cost to Mr. Poy: About $60.

Three Victoria members of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada were among 143 men completing a historic commemorative march this week from Swift Current to Cut Knife, Sask., following the route taken by the regiment in 1885 during the Riel Rebellion.

The Victorians are Rfn Bill Liggett, Rfn Ronald Sears and L/Cpl Dave Stones.

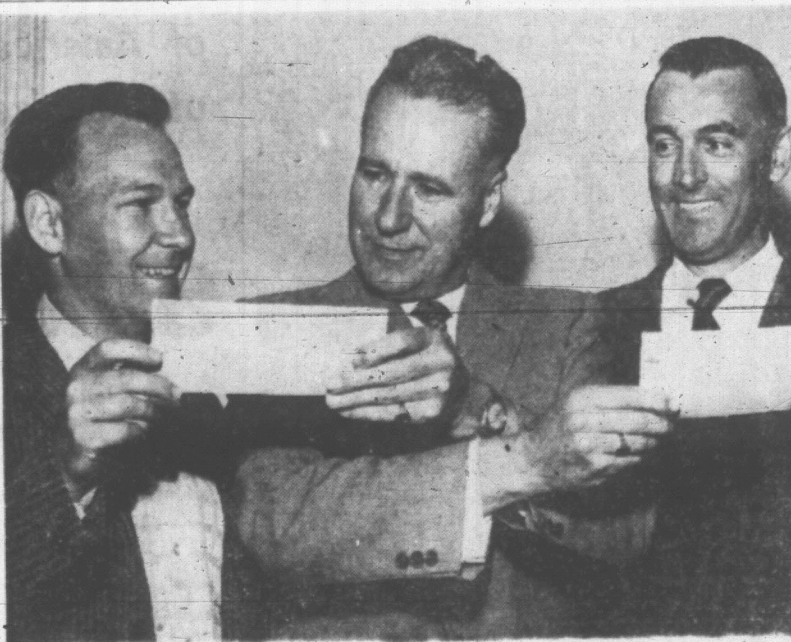

Eight boats from Royal Victoria Yacht Club will enter the July 16 International Power Boat Race from Seattle to Ladysmith.

Distance is 132 miles. Competing boats will be Navajo, Del Dor, Datopa, Eldorado II, Tichuk, Tampico, Moya and Blue Fjord.

Local Orangemen will commemorate the 270th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in the Orange Hall Saturday at 8 p.m.

A concert and social evening will be held.

Sunday, Orangemen will attend the 7.30 p.m. service at St. Aidan's Church.

YOUNGSTERS AND OLDSTERS will benefit from $1,650 presented to city today by Vic-Van-Isle Kinsmen Club out of its boat show proceeds. Accepting cheques for city is Geoffrey Edgell, public works chairman and honorary member of the club, from: (left) Richard White, $1,000 for playground equipment at Victoria West and Pemberton Parks; and Ronald Wells, $650 to cover cost of installing 10 benches at bus stops. Both projects were first of kind for club.

Jim Cuthill of Everett, Wash., handed himself a strong lead today in the first 18 holes of his semi-final match for the Pacific Northwest Golf Association tournament.

He held a seven-hole lead over Dr. Mel Aspray, a Spokane radiologist and veteran golfer, going into the second 18 holes of the semi-final.

Defending champion Ron Willey of Vancouver was having a tougher time. He had a three-hole margin over 20-year-old Gerry Cundari of Portland after the first 18.

The 36-hole final goes Saturday. Meanwhile, at Uplands Golf Club Mrs. T. S. Harrison of Portland and Judy Hoetmer of Seattle staged come-from-behind victories to advance to the finals of the Pacific Northwest Golf Association championships for women.

Miss Hoetmer, 19, defeated former champion Mrs. Pat Lesser. Harbottle of Tacoma one up after being down two holes after the first nine.

Mrs. Harrison, behind one hole at the 12th, came back to defeat Lynda Anderson of Olympia, Wash., one up.

The final goes here Saturday.

Three Share
Lead in Open

TORONTO (UPI)—Dow Finsterwald and Gene Coghill, as well as Doug Sanders, who won this event as an amateur four years ago, shared the early third round lead in the Canadian Open today with 54-hole totals of 212.

But with almost half the field still to finish, including all the second round pace-setters, 212 didn't figure to stand up long.

AFTER WILD NIGHT

Congo Riots
Dying Down

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters) — Mutinying army troops today wrested a promise from Premier Patrice Lumumba's eight-day-old government to dismiss all white officers.

Lumumba's office announced the new policy, which could open the way to a quick settlement to an army mutiny. The mutiny led early today to hundreds of Europeans—mostly Belgians—fleeing this former Belgian colony for Brazzaville, capital of former French colony which lies across the Congo River.

The question of white officers was a key factor in sparking the mutiny.

The statement also said a "group of Europeans" who tried to assassinate the premier has been arrested.

Lumumba appeared firmly in control at the end of the day, ending fears of a full revolution in the Congo, which gained independence from Belgium June 30.

The statement climaxed a day of conflicting reports about a new army mutiny or revolutions in the eight-day-old republic.

According to today's agreement, a Congolese general will head the army and Lumumba will be defence minister.

After negotiating with the rebels, Lumumba called a cabinet meeting where it was agreed to accept the terms and form a national Congolese army.

In Brussels Prime Minister Gaston Eyskens said two companies of troops would be sent to the Congo to reinforce Belgian army units already there.

THE TERROR
EXPLODED

United Press International staff correspondent George Sibera reached Brazzaville from panic-stricken Leopoldville this morning to file this eyewitness account of the Congo's night of terror.

By GEORGE SIBERA

BRAZZAVILLE, Congo Republic (UPI) Panic is king across the river in Leopoldville today.

I watched an army of moaning, shrieking, angry and—above all—frightened whites jam Leopoldville's docksides throughout the night for a place on a boat across the four-mile-wide Congo River.

Rumors drove them on. Wild-eyed men with clenched fists screamed out unconfirmed reports that African mutineers were raping white women, including nuns.

Murder was in their eyes—and in the air. And everywhere frightening rumors.

One rumor was that Patrice Lumumba—the African who became premier when the Belgian Congo got its freedom last week—had been arrested by mutinous troops in Leopoldville.

Belgian residents had feared the worst since Independence Day. True or false, in the past 24 hours they have acted as if their fears were realized.

Chugging into Leopoldville Thursday night came a trainload of refugees from mutiny-torn Thysville. The train and automobiles from Thysville carried cargoes of panic.

It infected Leopoldville's white residents. They heard reports of mutinous troops sowing terror throughout the Bakongo region to the south. "Terror exploded. White men, women and children burst out of their homes in the middle of the night.

Weeping women in nightgowns flowed into the Belgian embassy with wailing babies in their arms. A dozen Belgian youths arrived waving guns and vowing "we will fight till we die" before seeing their women molested and raped.

One youth raised the battle-field tension by shouting into the refugee-filled embassy gardens: "The Congolese rebels are coming."

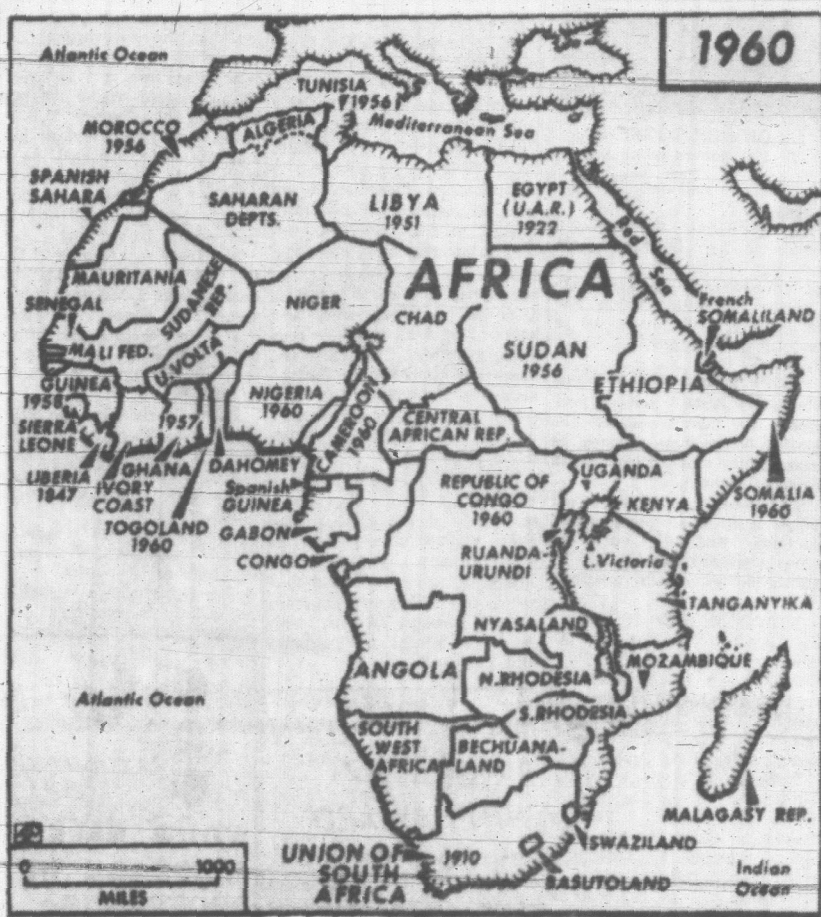

Just then came the distant echo of a rifle shot. Shouting, yelling and sobbing, the refugees fled into nearby buildings, behind trees or any hiding place they could find.

Others—dodging and looking fearfully back for bullets that did not come—ran down to the river where an ancient puffing steamer ferried load after load of desperate humanity to Brazzaville and safety.

I saw about 2,000 refugees mobbing the ferry dock. They included elderly persons, whimpering children and lip-biting men and women, some of them armed.

Local Congo troops, still loyal to this new government, swung into action to help the fleeing whites.

The white man's panic at-

In Italy Riots

By FRANK RUTTER

A Wenner-Gren spokesman today said the Pacific Northern Railway was willing to defend itself in court as opposition to its plans mounted in B.C.'s north.

Bernard Gore, of Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co., told the Times: "We are willing to go to court to answer Prince Rupert."

At the same time, the northwestern communities of Kitimat, Terrace and Smithers backed up Prince Rupert's bid to halt construction of the railway. They would all be bypassed by the 700-mile PNR.

Qualified.

Prince Rupert Mayor P. J. Lester said he thought his city qualified as an "interested party" under the Public Utilities Act. As such it might file a complaint with the PUC against the railway for starting work without PUC approval.

This would parallel the court action launched by Prince Rupert June 30, when a writ was served on PNR lawyers.

Mr. Lester said his lawyers were awaiting full text of a statement made Wednesday by the PUC showing reasons for approval.

Reveals Plan to Caucus

By TOM GOULD

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker is considering a fall session of Parliament to deal with unemployment, it was learned today.

The Prime Minister made the statement this week at a Tory party caucus.

He said there are "certain matters" that may require emergency government action. October has been mentioned as the most likely time for convening Parliament.

If Diefenbaker decides on a fall session, it will not be a separate session, but merely an adjournment of the current session. This would permit House committees to continue functioning, and would also do away with the need to pay MP's twice.

TO RISE JULY 25?

Some informants said it is likely Parliament will adjourn shortly before the federal-provincial fiscal conference convenes July 25.

Mr. Diefenbaker gave a public intimation of his intentions today when he refused to answer a question by Liberal MP Alexis Caon, who asked:

"Is it the intention of the government to adjourn the session during the summer so that the committee of the House could proceed with consideration of the bill of rights and other matters and have the House reconvene in the fall?"

The Opposition has been highly critical of the heavy work burden held off until the end of the session. The bill of rights committee has just been appointed; the broadcasting committee has not yet held its first meeting; and the committee studying amendments to combine legislation has a long way to go to complete its work.

Mr. Diefenbaker did not give the caucus any details of what legislation may be planned for the fall session.

(Today in the Commons, the Canadian Press reported: Mr. Diefenbaker told Opposition Leader Pearson, Parliament will stay in session until the bill of rights is given final approval.)

dismissing a railway application for a certificate of convenience.
The statement pointed out an interested party could complain, causing a full hearing into PNR affairs.

RAILWAY ACT

According to the government, the PNR started work under the Railway Act. The railway's lawyers earlier said it did not come under the Public Utilities Act.

The PUC statement said its legal advisers found the PNR to be a public utility and as such, should come under the PUC.

Asked today if the railway would go before the PUC, Mr.
Gore said, "It's purely a legal matter. I don't know. It is in the hands of our lawyers."

He said as far as he knew the lawyers have answered the Prinze Rupert writ—returnable today. The company was quite willing to fight in court.

Prinze Rupert seeks an injunction against the railway proceeding with construction.

WORK GOES ON

Mr. Gore said the PNR is still under construction. "It was never interrupted."

Jameson Construction of Vancouver is clearing a short distance from the Summit Lake terminus of the proposed line to the Yukon.

The firm is working under a three-month contract arranged through Minshall and Smith Engineering Ltd., which carried out surveys for the PNR.

"We have arranged daily pay for each man," said Mr. Gore.
"It is only daily in case the weather changes."

Mr. Gore said rainy weather would halt work. Poor weather was expected within three months. That was why the contract was no longer.

Mayor Lester said he wanted it made clear he wasn't politically opposing the railway.
It was an economic question and the reason "obvious" by looking at the map."

SPLITTING HAIRS

"We also don't think it should be outside the jurisdiction of the PUC." To say that was "ridiculous—it's splitting hairs."

Mr. Lester said about 100 miles of the start of the proposed railway paralleled the CNR line to Hazelton. This line runs to Prinze Rupert on the coast. This stretch would cost $30 million, said the mayor. This would be reflected in any freight rates charges later.

Also "the railway as it is planned would be 700 miles from a port," he said. "Shipments would have to go down to Vancouver."

OTHER WRITS

If the line were built from Hazelton it would save $30 million and provide access to the port of Prinze Rupert.

"I have received wires from Smithers, Terrace and Kitimat officials offering assistance," said Mayor Lester.

"They have expressed interest in our case."
Asked what assistance might be, he said, "They could put up writs of their own."

It was "very likely" the city would complain as an interested party to the PUC. "It seems as if the railway is almost afraid to go before them," he added.

Unofficially, it was learned the PUC would be willing to consider a complaint from Prinze Rupert.

It appeared the argument would revolve around the PNR's qualifications as a public utility.

Transport Minister Lyle
Wicks said Thursday the PNR would not require PUC approval to build its entire line.
But once it started operations a certificate would be necessary.

He said it is "quite clear"
the PUC feels the same way.
PUC chairman Dr. H. F.
Angus would not go beyond his statement which he said
"speaks for itself."

Flood Control Loan

LUXTON — Trustees of Bilston-Creek Improvement District have been authorized to borrow $8,000 to clear Bilston Creek as a flood control measure.
